FOUR HURT AS BUS HITS TRUCK NEAR LAWRENCEVILLE

Police Report That Driver Chose Alternative of Collision To Hitting Man Crossing Highway.

Four persons, three men and a woman, were critically injured at 10:30 o'clock last night on the Lawrenceville-Buford highway when a Greyhound bus, bound from New York to Atlanta, crashed into a truck parked on the highway, a quarter of a mile east of Lawrenceville.

Three of the injured were passengers of the bus and the fourth an occupant of the truck. Most of the other 32 bus passengers were badly shaken by the impact but were unhurt.

The injured passengers are: Jack McCollum, of Orlando, Fla. T. T. Davenport, of Charlotte, N. C.

Mrs. G. O. Perry, 188 Pine street, Atlanta.

J. T. Moon, 17, one of the occupants of the truck, also was injured. All were treated at the Georgia Baptist hospital early this morning. The extent of the injuries of each could not be ascertained although hospital attaches reported that all suffered broken bones and lacerations.

Fixing a Flat.

Young Moon and his father, Charles Moon, a farmer living at Rocky Branch, six miles from Lawrenceville, were repairing a flat tire on their truck when the accident occurred, according to C. G. Turner, night police officer at Lawrenceville, who went to the scene of the accident.

According to the report filed with the police at Lawrenceville, the truck had been stopped on the highway and, police said, that Henry Mauldin, driver of the Greyhound bus, told them that the truck was without lights.

Mauldin said that he saw the truck in time to avoid the crash but just as he did so one of the persons standing by the parked truck ran across the road. To avoid striking the man and killing him, Mauldin struck the parked truck. This man, the police believe, was the elder Moon.

Truck Demolished.

The truck was demolished and the right side of the big passenger bus was stove-in by the impact. Passengers were put on a following bus and brought to Atlanta.

Mrs. Perry, the Atlanta passenger on the bus, is the mother of C. G. Perry, an employee of the Associated Press in Atlanta. She had been visiting in Greenville, S. C., and was returning home.

Rucker, Kirby, Cobb Spotlight in Sports

The Crackers yesterday sold their youthful outfielder, John Rucker, to the New York Giants for a reported $30,000 and two unnamed players, worth approximately $15,000, making the total price $45,000, a new Southern league record.

Dorothy Kirby, Atlanta girl, gained quarter-finals of the United States women's golf championship by beating Bea Barrett, the medalist, 5 and 4, and Jane Cottrill, 4 and 3, at the Wee Burn (Conn.) Country Club. Kirby was one under par for the 29 holes required to play both matches.

Englishman John Cobb broke the world's automobile speed record, traveling 368.85 miles per hour—or better than six miles per minute—at Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah.

Complete details of events will be found in Sports Pages.

OFFICER SHOTS 2, THEN KILLS SELF

J. R. Chupp, Atlanta Policeman, Wounds Wife, Daughter After Row.

An Atlanta policeman shot and seriously wounded his 23-year-old daughter, and wounded his wife less seriously and then killed himself as the climax to a family quarrel yesterday afternoon, it was reported at police headquarters.

J. R. Chupp, 44, of 847 Virgil street, N. E., with a record of 11 years' continuous service on the police force, died instantly of a bullet wound just behind the ear.

His daughter, Ellen, was taken to Georgia Baptist hospital where it was found that she was suffering from a bullet wound in the lower abdomen. Mrs. Chupp was shot in the right arm and in the hip. Both were reported in "fair" condition late last night.

Neighbors reported the quarrel started about 2:30 o'clock and ended about an hour later with the triple shooting, all done with a .45-caliber automatic. Chupp was not on duty at the time, having finished his regular watch at 8 o'clock yesterday.

Mrs. J. L. Fuller, of 845 Virgil street, said she was in the Chupp home using the telephone when the argument began and immediately went to her own house.

FULTON TAX VALUE RISES 4 MILLION ABOVE LAST YEAR

Digest Shows $272,036,165, Which Would Provide $3,410,452 in Revenue With 12 1/2 Mill Rate

Fulton county's 1939 tax digest completed yesterday shows an increase of $4,391,690 in assessed property values over the 1938 digest with the 1939 total set at $272,036,165 as compared with $267,644,475 for 1938.

It is estimated that the 1939 tax budget will produce $3,410,452.06 revenue for the county as compared with $3,345,555.93 for 1938.

The digest increased exemptions of personal property and homesteads the figures released by Tax Receiver Guy Moore showed.

In 1939 the total value of property exempted amounted to $40,747,190 as compared with $37,868,780 for 1938 and the amount of revenue lost to the county through the exemptions rose from $473,359.70 for 1938 to $509,339.87 for 1939. This was an increase of $35,980.17 in lost revenue on the basis of a 12 1/2 mill tax rate although the 1939 tax rate has not been set. The tentative budget prepared by the Fulton county commission, however, contemplates a 12 1/2 mill rate.

78,904 Returns Filed.

Taxpayers filed 78,904 returns in the county for the current year as against 77,587 for 1938, a gain of 1,317. There were 71,720 white returns and 7,184 negro returns in 1939 as compared to 70,508 white and 7,079 negro returns in 1938. Thus there were 1,212 more white and 105 more negro returns listed for 1939 than in 1938.

Homestead exemptions for 1939 were valued at $34,945,680 as against $32,504,105 for 1938, an increase of $2,441,575. Personal property exemptions claimed in 1939 is valued at $5,801,510 compared to $5,364,675 for 1938, a gain of $436,835.

Several interesting studies are presented in the digest. One is the fact that the 2 1/2 mill special levy for relief will raise $550,873.71 for the year. Relief has been a matter of extreme controversy within the past few months.

The tentative June budget compiled by the county commission, but not yet adopted, lists all relief and benevolent activities of the county at $804,733 for the entire year, including $522,000 allocated to the Fulton county department of public welfare.

Other items carried in the budget are:

Community fund agencies, $59,150; Battle Hill Tuberculosis sanatorium, $100,000.

126,000 Georgia School Children Will Get Free Lunches This Fall

By LEE ROGERS.

Steaming hot lunches will be provided in the schools of Georgia this fall for 126,000 children whose tables at home are deficient in vitamin-bearing foods so necessary to well-balanced development and good health. Braswell Deen, director of the State Department of Welfare, estimated that $9,620,000 of surplus commodities would be allotted Georgia for the furtherance of the lunch program.

The lunches will serve a two-fold purpose. They will be an aid in correcting malnutrition found in the homes of the low-income families and at the same time will furnish the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation another outlet in their effort to remove price-depressing farm surpluses from the market.

Only those children from families in the low-income group will be permitted to participate in the program, Deen said. This lunch program is a part of the United States Department of Agriculture plan to feed 9,000,000 school children this year. To insure the utmost purity and balance of diet, the Works Projects Administration will supply trained persons to prepare and serve the lunch, Deen explained. The programs will be sponsored in the various localities by local civic organizations and the Parent-Teacher associations, through cooperation with the WPA. The welfare departments in the localities will certify the lunch projects for surplus commodities. Children to receive the free lunches will be examined physically at the opening of the school year and those from the deserving families will be certified for participation in the lunch program, Deen said.

HITLER DEMAND FOR PROTECTORATE OVER POLAND STAGGERS EUROPE

Fuehrer Tells London Poland Must Yield to All His Territory Demands or Be Partitioned

BRITISH ACE CARD PROVES A FAILURE

Russian-German Treaty Blow to Remaining Hopes for Settlement.

LONDON, Aug. 24 (Thursday)—(AP)—Already moving to place herself on a wartime footing, Great Britain viewed gloomily but grimly the German-Soviet Russian non-aggression pact signed early today in Moscow.

Diplomatic quarters said the pact was a blow to remaining British hopes that the crisis precipitated by Germany's demands on Poland might be solved peacefully by a firm British-French stand.

In particular, it was said, article two, apparently preventing either of the signatories from supporting in any way a third power engaged in war with the other, was regarded as carrying unhappy implications for British-French determination to aid Poland if she goes to war over Germany's demands.

British Silent.

There had been some hope that the British-French front might procure a "benevolent neutrality" from Russia with access to supplies and possibly leeway for troop movements from the Black sea. The Russian-German pact, however, it was said, seemed to remove this possibility.

The British foreign office declined to comment immediately on the pact. It was obvious, however, that the reception was a gloomy one.

The German Fuehrer's reported statement that Poland must either yield to his demands or be partitioned came as a staggering blow to British hopes for a peaceful settlement.

(Hitler's demands were reported in Berlin to include the unconditional return of the Free City of Danzig and those sections of Poland which were German before the World War and the acceptance by Poland of a protectorate over the area remaining to her.)

Ace Card Fails.

The British government was said to have considered the message delivered to Hitler today by Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, as its ace card.

It had been hoped a clear statement that Britain would fight by Poland's side might cause Hitler to be permitted to participate in the program, Deen said.

This lunch program is a part of the United States Department of Agriculture plan to feed 9,000,000 school children this year. To insure the utmost purity and balance of diet, the Works Projects Administration will supply trained persons to prepare and serve the lunch, Deen explained. The programs will be sponsored in the various localities by local civic organizations and the Parent-Teacher associations, through cooperation with the WPA. The welfare departments in the localities will certify the lunch projects for surplus commodities. Children to receive the free lunches will be examined physically at the opening of the school year and those from the deserving families will be certified for participation in the lunch program, Deen said.

STATE TO FINANCE 4 MONTHS' SCHOOL

Action Paves Way for Rivers To Borrow If Assembly Doesn't Aid.

The State Board of Education yesterday agreed to finance the common schools for the first four months of the new term, paving the way for Governor Rivers to borrow funds to carry out the program if the legislature does not provide the needed revenue in the meantime.

Asked directly if the resolution meant that he would exercise his borrowing power, Governor Rivers replied:

"We will cross that bridge when we come to it."

Under the board's action, payments to the schools will begin in September instead of October as heretofore. Any funds on hand will be used first, and if no other revenue is provided by the legislature it was presumed the Governor would borrow it. Under the law he is empowered to borrow up to $3,500,000 during the fiscal year providing he arranges for payment within that year.

Simultaneously, at Claxton, Chairman W. L. Miller, of the State Highway Board, said he would not oppose diversion of highway funds to pay school teachers if it is proven necessary, but added that he does not think that diversion is necessary.

Capitol observers pointed out that the school board's action was really a step toward a loan. School money comes from the general fund which is at low ebb during the early fall months and there will be little in the general fund until December 20 when ad valorem taxes are due. It was said that the funds now on hand would not carry the schools more than a month and that if the assembly does not provide new general fund money before October 1, the Governor would have no alternative but to make a loan if the school board is to carry out the

EUROPEAN CRISIS

LONDON—Britain moves toward wartime footing; Hitler demands stagger peace hopes; naval reinforcements speed to Mediterranean; east coast shippers cancel sailings due to leave for Baltic or German ports; signing of German-Soviet non-aggression pact regarded gloomily but grimly.

BERLIN—Hitler stands firm on Polish demands reported now to include acceptance by Poles of Nazi protectorate government; British ambassador restates Britain's determination to aid Poland and tells of Chamberlain's continued peace efforts, but reported to have been told in effect "too late."

MOSCOW—Germany and Russia sign nonaggression agreement after speedy negotiations among Von Ribbentrop, Molotoff and Stalin; British-French mission marks time on disrupted negotiations for three-power mutual assistance pact with Soviet; two members of British delegation prepare to return home.

ROME—French and British ambassadors confer with Italian foreign minister, Count Ciano. Advise each other of what their respective nations will do if Hitler marches into Danzig.

PARIS—France ordered partial mobilization in an announcement of her Emergency National Defense Council, bringing France's empire forces to approximately 2,000,000 men. Signing of German-Soviet pact causes deep pessimism; autos, trucks and taxis requisitioned.

BRUSSELS—King Leopold III of Belgium, in dramatic appeal for peace on behalf of seven small powers of northern Europe, urged the men on whom events depend to submit their conflicts "to open negotiations in a spirit of brotherly cooperation."

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt hurried home from a suddenly-curtailed vacation cruise while Washington wondered if it was his intention—using his own phrase for it—to "fire another shot for peace" in Europe.

WARSAW—A belief that western powers friendly to Poland were embarking upon "aggressive" diplomatic tactics to maintain peace inspired a glimmer of hope in Polish circles that the European crisis might be diminishing.

BUCHAREST—Rumania, with 850,000 men under arms, declared she was determined to remain neutral if war came to Europe and would fight only if attacked.

OTTAWA, ONTARIO—Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King, cabinet prepare for all-day meeting today; Canada anxiously eyes events in Europe and British parliament session; defense plans prepared months ago to be put into effect immediately should Britain become involved in war.

DANZIG—Heavily loaded army trucks roll out of Danzig carrying men and arms to fortifications along Polish frontier; Nazi leaders await only for Berlin's word setting time for Free City's restoration to Germany; expect showdown soon.

Reich-Soviet Nonaggression Accord Binds Both Nations as Friendly Powers for Ten Years.

TREATY IS SIGNED AS STALIN WATCHES

Provides Neither Country To Associate Itself With Any Opposing Group.

Additional news and pictures on the European crisis will be found in Pages 3, 8, 9 and 11.

MOSCOW, Aug. 24.—(Thursday)—(AP)—Germany and Soviet Russia early today signed a nonaggression pact binding each of them for 10 years not to "associate itself with any other grouping of powers which directly or indirectly is aimed at the other party."

By the pact they also agreed to "constantly remain in consultation with one another" on their common interests, to adjust differences by arbitration.

The nonaggression clauses bound each power to refrain from any act of force against the other and to refrain from supporting any third party which might engage in warlike acts against either of the signatories.

The pact did not include the usual escape clause providing for its denunciation in case one of the contracting parties attacked a third power. This provision has been written into most nonaggression agreements signed in the past by Moscow.

Text Listed.

The text of the pact, which was signed while Joseph Stalin watched, follows:

"The German Reich government and the Union of the Socialist Soviet Republics, moved by a desire to strengthen the state of peace between Germany and the U. S. S. R. and in the spirit of the provisions of the neutrality treaty of April, 1926, between Germany and the U. S. S. R. decided the following:

"Article I.—The two contracting parties obligate themselves to refrain from every act of force, every aggressive action and every attack against one another, including any single action or that taken in conjunction with other powers.

"Article II.—In case one of the parties of this treaty should become the object of warlike acts by a third power, the other party will in no way support this third power.

"Article III.—The governments of the two contracting parties in the future will constantly remain in consultation with one another in order to inform each other regarding questions of common interests.

"Article IV.—Neither of the

3 BURGARS FLEE IN HAIL OF SHOTS

Suspect Jailed After Hospitalization.

Police yesterday were holding a negro listed as James Powell in connection with an attempt to burglarize a lunch stand early yesterday morning at 159 Walker street. Sylvester Baugh, a night watchman employed at the lunch stand, reported to police he surprised three negroes attempting to enter the establishment and fired at them as they fled. He said he believed he hit one of the men. Powell was arrested a short time later when he applied for treatment at Grady hospital for gunshot wounds. He denied attempting the burglary and said he had been wounded in a fight.

Whew! Three Months To Compile Fulton Tax Digest

Ed F. Keen, left, and his corps of statisticians yesterday completed a three months' job, the compilation of the 1939 Fulton county tax digest. It showed total property values of $272,036,165 for the year, an increase of $4-torium, $22,000; burial of paupers, $1,250; care of juvenile wards, $60,000; Good Samaritan Clinic, $3,375; Grady hospital, $87,200; groceries for paupers, $1,800; Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, $5,000; Albert Steiner Cancer Clinic, $6,750, and almshouse operation, $36,208.

391,690 over the 1938 listings. Others in the picture and who have worked in the preparation of the voluminous report are, left to right, J. G. (Jeter) Morris Jr., George L. Edmondson and J. Paul Gilstrap.

The $509,339.87, which will be lost to the county through exemptions, is almost equal to the 21-2 mill special levy for relief purposes, it was pointed out yesterday, thus leaving the county government that amount short as compared with previous years before the exemptions became effective.

It also was pointed out that with the county levying a special tax for relief and assuming full responsibility for this phase of activity, that the city has been relieved of a special 1-mill tax levy imposed for that purpose in 1938. Fulton county commissioners, along with commissioners throughout the state are clamoring for a restitution of the lost revenues, and yesterday it was said that the loss from such exemptions for 1938 and 1939 would pay off nearly two-thirds of the actual indebtedness of the county, estimated at $1,500,000.

Suburban Values Gain.
Another study of the 1939 digest showed definite shift of property values from the city of Atlanta to suburban areas.

In 1935, 85.4 per cent of the $243,127,170 digest was in the city, while the percentage was reduced to 76.9 per cent, or $272,036,165, for 1939.

The county's steady growth also is shown in a comparison of the digests since 1935, when the figure was $243,127,170.

In 1936, the digest showed property valued at $255,072,045; in 1937, it was $267,705,475; in 1938, it was $267,644,475, and $272,036,165 in 1939.

Property values, both real and personal, lying outside the Atlanta city limits from 1937 to 1939 follows:

In 1935, $35,608,185; 1936, $38,711,310; 1937, $44,404,405; 1938, $48,932,125; 1939, $53,616,575.

Of the entire 1939 digest, $264,423,240 was produced by white persons and $6,612,925 by negroes. This compares with $261,044,850 owned by white persons in 1938 and $6,599,625 held by negroes.

City real estate showed a loss of $41,140 over 1938, while a gain of $4,266,295 was recorded in the county. The 1939 digest listed $160,169,910 in real property in the city and $36,649,420 in the county.

Bank shares in 1939 were valued at $5,104,305, as compared with $5,141,160 for 1938, a loss of $36,855, but notes, stocks and merchandise increased with the 1939 figure at $51,153,775, compared to $42,766,380 for 1938, a gain of $8,387,395.

Automobile ownership values decreased $421,430 for 1939 as compared to 1938, according to Moore's figures. The 1939 value was $8,441,915 against $8,863,345 for 1938. Manufacturing company values fell off $2,852,735 for the year, being $6,531,105 for 1939 and $9,383,840 for 1938.

Household furnishings showed a loss of $1,100,070 for 1939, with the current year's figure set at $7,446,205 as against $8,546,275 for 1938.

A total of 1,603 new residents claimed homestead exemptions in 1939, with 27,380 listed for this year, as compared to 25,777 for 1938. In the 1939 list were 23,168 white persons and 4,212 negroes, while in 1938 a total of 21,679 whites filed for exemptions and 4,090 negroes.

Poll taxes were returned this year by 46,150, including 42,875 white persons and 3,275 negroes, while in 1938 the total was 45,917 with 42,741 whites and 3,176 negroes.

GEORGIA'S COTTON INJURED BY RAIN; PICKING DELAYED

Corn in Uplands Helped; Peanuts Hurt; Fruit Harvest Is Hindered in Several Communities.

Damage to the Georgia cotton crop from heavy rains of the last week—totaling more than six inches at Columbus and Toccoa—was reported yesterday by the Weather Bureau.

The weekly summary issued by Senior Forecaster George W. Mindling said:

"Heavy shedding resulted from too much rain in some places, open cotton was damaged and picking seriously delayed in the southern half, but premature opening was stopped in many northern counties. Weevil activity was much increased by the prolonged rains."

Corn—Upland crop helped, but lowlands damaged by stream overflow.

Major Guinn's Former Pupils Hold Reunion

Students of 50 Years Ago Return to Site of Early School Days at Old Salem Camp.

By LUKE GREENE. Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

SALEM CAMPGROUND, Ga., Aug. 23.—Beneath the trees where 50 years ago they played as school children, 25 former pupils of Major R. J. Guinn, of Atlanta, answered his roll call today at their first class reunion.

They mingled on the same spot where stood the weather-beaten, one-room schoolhouse in which they learned the fundamentals of reading, writing and arithmetic under the guidance of Major Guinn. They paid tribute to their former teacher, recounted experiences of their early youth and then spread dinner, picnic style, under the trees.

Joyous Occasion. It was a joyous occasion. Time had brought its changes, but the men and women exhibited much of the youthful spirit they must have had half a century ago when they romped across the school grounds at recess time.

Today the Salem Woman's Club stands on the spot where the old schoolhouse was in 1889. It is close by the historic Salem Campground where many of the major's students learned about religion.

The students of 50 years ago came back today with their children and grandchildren. Many of them began their courtship at this spot. J. M. Hollingsworth led the rest with nine children and six grandchildren.

Medal for Spelling. While reminiscing about his school days, Hollingsworth fumbled with a chain to which a gold medal was attached. He drew it from his vest pocket, gazed at it fondly, and said:

"Major Guinn gave that to me for being the best speller in the class. Those were the days of the blue-back speller. We would have spelling matches in which we had to stand in line. The object was to get to the head of the line by outspelling all the others. I managed to get to the head and stay there."

W. S. Elliott, Canton banker, remembered other things about the schoolhouse and the teacher. He recalled that Major Guinn could put a small boy under each arm and outrun all the other boys in the class. Furthermore, the major helped the boys build a swimming hole in the pasture near the school.

As a tribute to their former teacher, the class presented Major Guinn with a silver cup. H. Y. McCord Sr. contributed a picture of the major to be placed in the Woman's Club.

Stand Examination. As a part of the program, the "students" had to stand an examination given by Major Guinn. He asked them to name some of the things they had today which they did not have 50 years ago. Then they sang "Count Your Many Blessings."

U. S. AND ARGENTINA TO SIGN TRADE PACT

Dwindling Volume of Exports, Imports Are Cited By Welles.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(P)—The United States and its second biggest customer in this hemisphere, Argentina, will negotiate a trade agreement, the State Department announced today.

It has taken at least three years to bring the two nations to the point of negotiation, following many soundings and the disclosure of one major difficulty after another.

Major R. J. Guinn, center, of Atlanta, called the roll yesterday of the pupils he taught 50 years ago at a school near Salem Campground. Twenty-five attended the first class reunion. They are seated left to right, E. B. Plunkett, of Porterdale; J. L. Elliott, of Covington; Mrs. Mattie Boyd Elliott, of Atlanta and Washington; William S. Elliott, of Canton; Major Guinn, Mrs. Nora Stowers Womack, Miss Donie Vandegriff, of Covington; Mrs. Corinne Ramsey Hollingsworth, of Covington; Mrs. Willie W. Watson, of Covington. Kirkland, of Covington; Mrs. Emma Smith, of Covington; Mrs. Paul Hardeman, of Covington; Mrs. Otis Hardeman, of Covington; Mrs. Leeman Smith, of Covington; Mrs. Cary Plunkett, of Conyers; Mrs. Lizzie Davis Henry, of Covington; Mrs. Florence Smith Loyd, of Covington, and J. N. Loyd, of Covington. Mrs. Elizabeth Boyd Allmand, of Atlanta, was not in the picture.

LEOPOLD DELIVERS DRAMATIC APPEAL

'A Horrible Struggle Is Being Prepared,' King Broadcasts.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 23.—(P)—King Leopold III of Belgium, in a dramatic appeal for peace on behalf of seven small powers of northern Europe, tonight urged the men on whom events depend to submit their conflicts "to open negotiations in a spirit of brotherly co-operation."

"Under our eyes," the monarch said, "the camps are forming, the armies are grouping, a horrible struggle is being prepared in Europe."

Without making any direct offer to mediate, the 37-year-old king expressed hope that "other chiefs of state would join their voices" to his in "the same desire for peace and security for their peoples."

Leopold's address was made with the approval of the governments of Belgium, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, the Netherlands, Finland and Luxembourg—members of the so-called Oslo group—whose foreign ministers completed a hurried one-day conference in Brussels today.

His words were relayed on an international broadcast. The king painted a gloomy picture. He declared a "frightful war threatens which would know neither victor nor vanquished but in which the spiritual and material values created by centuries of civilization would founder."

In a joint statement concluding the parley, the members of the would-be neutral group reaffirmed that they were "ready to collaborate actively in any international effort for conciliation."

U. S. Bund's Paper Promises Pact Report

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(P)—The Deutscher Weckruf Und Beobachter, official organ of Fritz Kuhn's German-American Bund, appeared on the stands today with a notice that it would publish in next week's issue "a full report on the German-Soviet nonaggression pact."

There was no other news or comment from the Bund or its officials.

War Fears Boom Sale Of Argentine Food

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 23.—(P)—War fears in Europe have caused a great demand for Argentine wheat and beef, government sources said today. More than 180,000 tons of wheat have been sold to European buyers in the last few days, it was said, and negotiations undertaken for large sales of beef.

Miller Favors Using Road Funds For Schools 'Only If Necessary'

Chairman of Highway Board Tells Claxton Rotarians Move Should Not Be Needed To Provide Adequate Education Operation Cash.

CLAXTON, Ga., Aug. 23.—(P) Chairman W. L. Miller of the State Highway Board said today he would favor diversion of road funds "if necessary" to finance schools—and promptly added, "I do not feel this is necessary."

"I feel," he said, "the school teachers should be paid; I feel we should have an adequate school system, and that it should have adequate support."

"If it is necessary to divert highway funds, I am in favor of doing that, but I do not feel this is necessary in view of the fact the Highway Department received less money in state revenue in 1937 and 1938 than it did each year in 1930, 1931 and 1932, in the midst of the worst depression this nation has ever had."

Miller came here today to address a luncheon meeting of the Claxton Rotary Club.

Miller said the Highway Department received net state revenue totaling $13,309,000 in 1930, compared to net income of $11,328,000 in the last fiscal year. Miller told the Rotary group the highway department showed a current paper deficit of $764,333.67, and indicated it would be at least five months before the department caught up with maturing road contract obligations.

Miller insisted he was "not going to oppose diversion in any way," and added, "I only mean to give the public the true picture of the financial set-up of the highway department."

CARSWELL SAYS PLAN BORDERS ON 'DISHONEST'

Porter Carswell, executive secretary of the Citizens' Road League of Georgia, said yesterday proposals to divert state road funds to other purposes appear "to border just a little on the dishonest."

The Waynesboro publisher issued a statement saying: "Far from being willing to take gasoline tax money for purposes other than roads, I think most Georgians really believe that the schools ought to be financed from some other fund and the one-cent gas tax now being converted ought to go into road construction, while federal spending makes possible rapid advances."

Honor Major Wright on Transfer to Seattle

Jesse Draper, left, chairman of the aviation committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, presents Major Wiley R. Wright, right, senior aeronautics inspector, with a silver cocktail shaker, the gift of the committee. Major Wright has been transferred to Seattle.

WILEY R. WRIGHT TO LEAVE ATLANTA

Senior Aeronautics Inspector Presented With a Silver Cocktail Shaker.

Major Wiley R. Wright, for five years senior local aeronautics inspector for the federal government, has been transferred to a new post with the Civil Aeronautics Authority in Seattle, Wash., effective September 1, it was announced yesterday.

As senior inspector, Major Wright was responsible for the maintenance of effective air transport facilities in the Atlanta district. He has been instrumental in the drive to bring new air line routes through Candler Field, working with the aviation committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Good-bye Present.
At a meeting yesterday afternoon the aviation committee presented Major Wright with a silver cocktail shaker "as a token of our appreciation for your service and help here in Atlanta."

Jesse Draper, chairman of the chamber committee, in making the presentation, said: "We are going to miss Major Wright, but we'll remember him and his work as long as he has eye teeth. That is why before he goes we wish to thank him with this token."

The aviation committee also discussed its recent work in compiling data to show the need of additional air routes to and from Atlanta. The information, according to Chairman Draper, will be used as testimony in CAA hearings on petitions by air line companies for Atlanta schedules.

Need Shown.
It was pointed out in the meeting that 2,085 national companies have branch factories, warehouses, or sales offices in the Atlanta territory. The home offices of the majority of the firms are not on present air routes connecting with Candler Field.

Chairman Draper announced at the meeting two hearings of the CAA scheduled for September 18 and October 9 at which time petitions for additional Atlanta air schedules will be heard by the authority.

COMMUNITY FUND PROVIDES AID, NOT RELIEF, SAYS RICH

Changing Name Correctly Labels Citizens' Effort To Pull Together for Common Good—Official

The work of the Atlanta Community Fund is rehabilitation, reclamation and prevention rather than "relief and public welfare," Richard H. Rich, publicity chairman of the fund, declared yesterday in explaining the reason for changing the name of the "Community Chest" to the "Community Fund."

He said: "The idea of the Atlanta Community Fund always has been a sound idea, and is one of the finest community activities that Atlanta has ever known."

All Walks of Life. "It is one activity where the people from every walk of life join together in a common good."

"I believe that it is a step in the right direction to change the name of the 'Community Chest' to 'Community Fund.' For a long time we have been putting the wrong label on the right package. We have been advertising and selling a package labeled 'relief' or 'public welfare.' Our package should have been labeled 'prevention' or 'rehabilitation' or 'reclamation' or 'aid.'"

The idea of a city-wide community spirit in an effort to do these important things that no other state or governmental agency touches is, in my opinion, the most important activity in our city for it aims to build better citizenship and to eventually minimize the necessity of direct relief.

"To clarify this story of 'putting a new label on the package,' so to speak, and to let the public know what they are buying with their Community Fund dollars is the important job before us."

Same Merchandise. "We've still got the same fine merchandise, and we are going to advertise it exactly for what it is. It is a vital, necessary commodity."

"Every citizen needs it, and it is the biggest bargain the public can buy. It is my opinion that this year we will have the most successful Community Fund drive with the most whole-hearted public interest and support in the history of Atlanta."

$2,000,000 IS PAID TO STATE'S JOBLESS

Huiet Announces 337,000 Checks Sent in Past 7 1-2 Months.

Two million dollars has been paid workers under the Georgia Unemployment Compensation Law in the past seven and a half months, Ben T. Huiet, commissioner of labor, announced yesterday. Huiet said 337,000 checks have been issued by the bureau through August 15.

Among the counties which shared largely in the payments were Fulton, DeKalb, Bibb, Richmond, Muscogee, Floyd, Chatham, Dougherty, Spalding, Troup and Whitfield.

March was the peak month in payments of benefits. Over $340,000 was disbursed among eligible unemployed. Since then, payments have practically leveled off. By months the number of checks issued and amounts of payments follow:

Month	Checks	Amount
January	3,328	$ 20,397.40
February	32,221	185,292.36
March	61,316	340,930.41
April	60,372	289,546.87
May	56,015	332,708.08
June	33,284	321,294.31
July	32,287	325,284.07
August 1-15	28,169	176,546.10

Eligible workers receive approximately one-half of their average full-time weekly wage, but not more than $15 per week, nor more than $240 within any 12 months.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 2 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or acute passages with a burning and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Shoots Two, Kills Self

J. R. CHUPP.

OFFICER SHOTS 2, THEN KILLS SELF

Hearing more disturbance, she said she looked out of her window and saw Chupp chasing both women.

"Don't shoot her, shoot me!" she quoted Mrs. Chupp as saying at one time while they both continually pleaded, "Don't shoot!"

Only clue as to the cause of the quarrel was offered by another daughter, Mrs. C. G. King, who related that her father became "very angry" because Mrs. Chupp gave her mother $5.

Other relatives and neighbors, however, reported that "frequent quarrels" had marked the home life of the Chupps for several years and that the shootings apparently were the culmination of long-standing disagreements.

Mrs. King and her five-year-old son had been in the Chupp house earlier in the afternoon but left soon after Chupp began abusing her mother and sister, it was reported.

Another neighbor, Mrs. H. G. Peavy, of 843 Virgil street, told officers Chupp was brought home in an automobile by a negro shortly after 2:30 o'clock and that he appeared to have been drinking. M. C. Gordon, of 920 Austin avenue, a barber, said he had shaved him earlier and that he appeared slightly intoxicated.

Nervous Italy and Japan

America watches Europe with a cynicism born of the last world war. That cynicism has been increased by the recent coups of Germany and the even more recent peace between the heretofore eternal enemies, Russia and Germany.

All Europe is shaken. But as one views the entire field, it must be assumed that those two nations most worried are Italy and Japan with the latter nation the more nervous of the two. Japan is dependent for her safety on the success of the axis member, Italy. Italy must keep the British and French fleets from the Mediterranean, or at least keep them occupied in the Mediterranean, to give Japan and herself a chance of success.

Japan has met with a resistance in China which may sink the Japanese government. To this has been added the enmity of England.

England's first and most intensive campaign, if war comes, will be in the Mediterranean. England cannot leave part of her fleet there and become effective in western seas. Therefore the English and French fleets, which combined outnumber Italy's two to one, will strike with all force in the Mediterranean. The English believe they can clear Italy from that sea within 48 hours. They must—or lose. It is obvious they will win in the Mediterranean.

When they have cleared the Mediterranean the large African army of Italy will be cut off. The far-flung marauding armies of Japan will be all but isolated. The military and economic leaders of those two countries must know that. Japan must know, too, that if her forces are isolated in China that Russia might move on the Japanese border where sporadic fighting has been going on for months.

It is obvious that Japan and Italy must be tremendously concerned and earnestly desire no war. They can exert but little pressure on the fanatical Fuehrer of Europe, who like fanatics of old, believes that God leads him.

If war does come the thunder of guns will be loudest in the Mediterranean. The English must do that job first. Italy knows this. And Japan, dependent on the Italian fleet, cannot feel too good about it.

These are the chief factors which may cause Italy again to quit Germany as an ally, something Italy already would have done had it not been for the fact that Germany already has put her fingers on the Italian throat—the Brenner pass.

This man Hitler is who, in last January, made a speech in which he pledged himself to the integrity of the five-year peace pact with Poland.

Meanwhile, the millions of men and women and children who do not want war, await the decision of a dozen men who shall decide whether millions of men, women and children are to die because a success-mad genius and fanatic wishes to take over an independent people who have done him no harm and who have made no threats against peace.

Encouraging Sign

Steel production long has been regarded as the barometer of the nation's business. Whenever unfilled steel orders increase, business looks good. When a decrease is registered, it is a discouraging sign, an indication of bad weather, on the business horizon.

But with steel production at 62 1-2 per cent of capacity—the highest in ten months—with the strengthening of scrap prices and the closing of "weak spots" in retail quotations, the steel outlook has taken on a pleasing aspect. "Despite the large amount of low-priced business still on mill books," to quote from Iron Age, "the current situation is the firmest it has been since 1937. Another indication of stability is the increasing amount of sheet and strip business that is being booked at full published prices. Since August 10 the reinforcing bar price has been considerably strengthened."

"While orders from the automobile industry are increasing, the full volume of business for initial production of 1940 models has not yet developed. It is expected the steel operating rate will be above the August average because of a large volume of rollings for motor makers."

It is also an encouraging sign that steel orders are coming from such widespread, scattered sources. With the promised requirements of the automobile industry added during the coming months, the steel barometer may be said to indicate fairer weather for business at an early date.

"Down to Brass Tacks"

Calhoun, the progressive city in north Georgia, today welcomes the full force of the 58th annual convention delegates of the Georgia Press Association, meeting in what has been termed a "down to brass tacks" assembly.

Registration was begun yesterday and opening exercises were held in the evening at the high school auditorium with Host-Editor J. Roy McGinty as master of ceremonies. Mayor James H. Reeve extended the keys of the city and Governor Rivers made the principal address.

Calhoun's reception is unique and one which makes the association meeting more enjoyable. Lacking hotel facilities to care for the usual business and the more than 300 visitors expected, the hospitable citizens of Calhoun opened their homes to the delegates. In effect the entire city is taking part in making the meeting a successful and enjoyable one. Calhoun always does things well.

A program has been prepared which will take the Georgia delegates to Rome, Dalton, to the battlefields at Chickamauga and to Lookout Mountain where a barbecue luncheon will be served at noon Saturday.

The "brass tacks" feature deals with the program which gets down to the brass tacks features of newspaper work, "Economy Ideas in Job Printing," "How to Effect Savings in Buying Paper," and so on.

The record of Georgia newspaper editors is one of which they may be proud. There is hardly a city in the state, no matter how small, that has not felt the constructive influence of one of the editors of Georgia. Parks, libraries, paved streets, hospitals and many other civic improvements have been inspired and brought into being by the patriotic editors of the state's weekly and daily newspapers. Many of them have served as mayors, as heads of civic committees, as church leaders and always as community servants.

The Constitution joins with the citizens of Calhoun and the state in congratulations and best wishes for a most successful convention.

German Readiness

News which sometimes trickles through from Germany is not too conducive to the ideas that the Third Reich is on its toes, efficient, ready and anxious for the proper moment to strike down its enemies.

During the grand parade into Austria it became a known fact that mechanized army units, rolling largely on synthetic rubber, were a source of considerable embarrassment to proud army leaders. It was a poor performance under the most favorable conditions with no enemy to be taken into account and defeated. Unbiased observers felt it would have been much poorer then and later on had it encountered a well-oiled war machine such as the French.

There is no reason for believing conditions in this respect have changed for the better. Indeed, gauged by the measures of economy fastened upon the country, Germany is even more hard pushed for the all-important war ingredient, rubber.

So serious is the shortage said to be that doctors have been advised to "wash their hands several minutes longer in order to economize on valuable rubber goods." In other words operate without the protection of rubber gloves. In the United States sterilized rubber gloves in surgery are considered indispensable. To do away with them in the interest of economy would indicate there was less rubber available than good sense for it is hazardous to surgeon and patient alike to operate without them.

Many other essential commodities have been put on a "ration" basis in Germany thus arousing the suspicion abroad that in a prolonged clash with "fighting" enemies, vaunted German efficiency would soon be in a rather dilapidated condition after a prolonged blockade. That is, unless the now much talked-about trade agreement with Russia changes this aspect of the matter, which is doubtful.

You can't act according to the dictates of another person's conscience, but judging by what lots of people's conscience seem to let them get away with it, it wouldn't be a bad idea to try.

It is only the harvesting of a potato crop, we hear, that holds up a European war. The wheat and cannon fodder are gathered.

In the issue of immediate war, the Duce takes the enthusiastic attitude of our late congress, confronted by a White House "must" proposal.

It looks as if this Paris decree of corsets for womankind will stand, unless someone obtains a stay in the proceedings.

Then there was the atlas publisher who pulled a boner in his map of Europe and waited for it to come true.

Wolves are silly to hang around American doors, when they are needed in Europe to throw an occasional small nation to.

The most honest thing about some people is their intentions.

Editorial of the Day

JOHN GARNER WILL RUN, ALL RIGHT

(From the Texas Weekly.)

Well, the radical or conservative Mr. Garner, whichever you prefer, is back home now, catching a few fish and a lot of chiggers, and occasionally receiving friends. During the next few months he will conduct what his friends have described as a "front-porch" campaign, which means that he will continue in the future as he has in the past to keep an eagle eye on political trends but to raise not a hand to direct them. If those trends continue to hold the phenomenal regularity which has characterized them in recent months (polls in states throughout the country have disclosed that Mr. Garner is the choice of more Democrats to succeed Mr. Roosevelt than virtually all other candidates combined), then Mr. Garner will enter the next Democratic convention with enormous strength. But if that situation does not materialize, the least disappointed among the Garners will be the Vice President himself. His destiny is in the hands of his countrymen, to mold it as they will. And it is just as well. The one elective position in the American democracy where the office should seek the man, and not the man the office, is that of President of the United States.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

NEUTRALITY REVISION WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The despair at the State Department and the unrelieved gloom of all reports from Europe sufficiently indicate the seriousness of the international situation. War is an odds-on bet. If war comes, it is obviously an equally good bet that, whether the United States fights or no, chaos will ultimately engulf the entire western civilization to which this country belongs.

Under the circumstances, it's rather natural that State Department officials and members of the President's entourage should be recalling, somewhat bitterly, the famous White House conference on the neutrality act. That was the meeting after the senate foreign relations committee had refused to consider neutrality revision, at which leaders of both parties gathered to consider the next step. In an atmosphere richly flavored with partisanship which then seemed comic and now seems grimly tragic, the conferees decided to do nothing.

The powerful deterrent effect of neutrality revision on the Fascist powers might even have averted the present crisis, and all the damage the crisis is bound to do to the American business boom. Should the crisis end in war, we shall also be promptly confronted with a serious practical result of that decision to do nothing about neutrality. The democracies' greatest deficiency is still in the air. With the vast fortifications of the so-called lines guarding Germany's western frontier, an air attack is the democracies' best threat. To make such an attack possible, France has ordered 600 American bombing planes. The first of these have just been completed, but an outbreak of hostilities will force the President to proclaim an embargo on arms exports. England's airplane orders are not completed either, so that the decision to do nothing will half-hamstring the democracies at the very start of the world struggle, and give equivalent aid to the Fascist powers.

HULL'S PLEADING, BORAH'S BOAST By hindsight, the incidents of the White House neutrality conference are tinged with acid irony. The atmosphere was matter-of-fact enough. There was talk of how to mix gin highballs, and there was joking between the President and the Vice President. The Republicans, Senators Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, and William E. Borah, of Idaho, were in the ascendant. They held the whip hand.

The crux of the discussion came early, when the President and Secretary of State Cordell Hull outlined the European situation, predicting precisely what is happening. The President spoke in a business-like tone, not even hoping to convert men whose minds were already made up. But Hull, an old warrior man, dealing with men who had always been his friends, was deeply moved. As he quoted reports from abroad, showed points of danger on the map, and described the factors making a war crisis almost inevitable, a kind of passion of persuasion seized him. He humbled himself to plead. His voice broke, and he seemed so close to emotional collapse that, as one man present later put it, "it made us all pretty uncomfortable."

All the answer Hull got to his pleading was Senator Borah's truly remarkable boast, that he had never put the President superior to those of the State Department. McNary and the other senators opposing neutrality revision saw the question only in the light of domestic politics, and while they claimed no private spy system like Borah's, preferred to take refuge in an easy optimism rather than to face the cruel facts. Accordingly the decision was reached—to do nothing.

UNNEUTRALITY ACT If there is war, the President has already intimated that he will call an immediate special session of congress. Thus far, there has been no sign that he will not put the neutrality act into effect on the first day of fighting. Its terms are too specific, its application to a European conflict is too clear to permit of its being ignored as it has been in the Far East. But the President's chief proposal to the special session is expected to be the same alteration of the neutrality act which was not carried through because of the White House conference.

With German bombers over Paris and London, with the democracies unable to return the attack on equal terms, and with the certain emotional repercussions in this country, it is probable that congress will alter the act as the President desires. The wheel will then have gone full circle, for, with the nations at war, alterations of the neutrality act will wear the color of unneutrality.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

They sang of "Flat Foot Floogie,"
And "Little Bittie Fittie,"
I don't know what it's all about,
But know it's far from witty.

Humor,
Or Wit.

There is an ancient American slur upon the English, to the effect that the cousins on the east-ern side of the Atlantic lack a sense of humor. Various times the desire has come to attempt refutation of this unwarranted slander and have, in fact, many times presented argument in refutation in private conversation. So, now to try to place some of that argument on the printed page.

Of course, let it be granted at the outset that I am English by birth and education and if you want to make the charge that my own perspective or appreciation of the humorous is tinged thereby, you are free so to do. However, to proceed:

As a youth in the teens it was my habit to, on occasion, patronize those institutions whose stock in trade was the stuff of which laughter is made. They were then out of the "music hall" category and blossoming forth as "vaudeville," though in the colloquialism of the oldtimers they were still designated "the 'alls."

At the tender age of 19 I transferred habitation and to this side of the Atlantic, first in Canada and a few years later, in the United States. And the temples of vaudeville continued to number me among the faithful devotees. In fact, in February of 1912, when I first stepped from a train onto an Atlanta platform—it was the old train shed by the Kimball House—I spent my first evening in this city at the Forsyth theater.

Therefore, it is my claim that I have certain advantages in that I have not only seen the comedians who have sampled the comedians' wares on both sides of the big pond. My own conclusion is that American audiences are less witty and slower "on the uptake" than English audiences, but that they do laugh more and thus evidence, even though misleadingly, a more ready response to the japes of the presumed funny man.

Element
Of Surprise. It is my belief that, while broad humor may be more evident in America, the rapier wit is more highly appreciated in England. And it is thus that English audiences are more difficult to stir to the guffaw of the snicker or the belly laugh than are Americans. For surprise is more the concomitant of wit than of humor.

Your English audience leans back in its seats and rather challenges the comedian on the stage to make them laugh. They say, silently of course, "You'll have to earn your laughs and to do that you'll have to surprise us. Which means that your jokes must be new. We don't like, nor laugh at, gags we've heard before."

Therefore, the comedian who can't bring something new in his wit to an English audience is an unfortunate practitioner of his art. In America, on the other hand, it doesn't seem to matter how old a joke is. The audiences aren't looking for something new. They seem, in fact, to prefer the old and tried formulas, the ancient, much used gags. They sit back and, when they recognize the beginning of some humorous story they've been laughing at for decades, they begin to grin. "Remember this?" they seem to say. "It's funny. I know it is because Dad used to burst his sides laughing at it. I'll hold back my laughter until he reaches the point. It'll be difficult, but I'll recognize the right moment. Then hear me roar!"

In short, new jokes are apt to fall flat in America. Because the audience, forsooth, hasn't been trained to recognize them as funny. Whereas in England, the ancient gag is received in stony silence. Because the Englishman has been conditioned by his long habit of conducting the campaign against him, he is guilty of violating labor's right to organize by sowing suspicion of his leaders among the rank and file.

So the best the Daily Bugle can do is come out with a couple of blank columns in the news section and editorial zone, with a little line over each, reporting that this is where the Bugle would have told the public its own version of the facts and its own opinion of the controversy if the labor relations board had been so kind.

Right to Henry Ford's offense was that he presented

Speak to Ford employees his side of a dispute with the organizers of the CIO Automobile union, and gratuitously added his own opinion that it was inadvisable for the men to join. But, just as a published opinion, that document was not binding on the Ford employees. If Ford took further steps to make it binding, those steps, not the published opinion, would have constituted intimidation or interference.

I do not assume that Mr. Ford told the truth entirely and without bias, and, quite aside from the fact that unionists frequently bruise the truth and boast of their bias and bile, I hold that he still has an equal right to speak or print his piece, subject to the ordinary penalties, which are disproof and discredit for misrepresentation and financial loss and imprisonment for libel.

Imagination need not strain to conceive a case in which the board might order the entire American press to suppress news and comment unfavorable to the union side in a fight involving a national organization with a local in every shop, lest members of these locals feel themselves coerced by their respective publishers.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Boas- NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Let me substitute a Baiters newspaper publisher for Henry Ford in the labor board case in which Ford is ordered to refrain from disparaging or criticizing labor unions and I will show you where this confused and arrogant nest of professional boss-baiters claims a right—indeed, even a duty—to censor any newspaper in the United States, and in conceivable circumstances, to censor them all at once. Just admit that a publisher in the same situation could be ordered to print neither news nor opinion which, in the board's own judgment, disparaged or criticized unions in general or any particular union and you make my case for me.

Disparagement and criticism are among the principal products of the American nation, and Ford is better than a crude hand at such activity himself. He is, however, been disparaged and criticized by experts, including some muscovie revolutionists whom the labor board now holds immune from counter-battery work by the Ford politico-editorial department.

The right of the press to disparage and criticize is no more sacred than Mr. Ford's, but it would point up the case to imagine the defendant in these proceedings as a newspaper publisher rather than a manufacturer. I want to show that this order is an act of censorship and for that purpose will assume that the Daily Bugle has been having a controversy with certain individuals who, by methods not necessarily straightforward, have caused themselves to be selected as the bargaining agents for the Bugle's staff.

Always Demands are discussed

Two Sides ed and the ment makes certain concessions, but refuses to go further, whereupon the unionists, in speeches and in hand bills and pamphlets, disparage and criticize the Bugle. Some of this matter is truthful, for it is not beyond imagining that the management has some faults, but if the case be typical it must be allowed that much of it is twisted or false and in spots, scurrilous. Regardless of whether a strike ensues, the unionists determine to beat the publisher into submission by denouncing him as an enemy of labor and by union enactments binding all members of this union and its nation-wide family of affiliates to boycott not only the paper itself but all products advertised therein.

The publisher claims that he is not an enemy of labor and wants to present his side of the dispute and repeat in print, short of libel and obscenity, the matter which has been uttered under union auspices against himself and his executives and those employees who preferred not to join the union. He wants to repeat this matter by way of showing the tactics which are used by the other side and to prepare the ground for an effort to refute. Accordingly, he prepares news reports in which he interviews himself and editorialists weighing the arguments.

The labor board then in consistency with its order to Henry Ford and the concept of its duty revealed in that order, cites him for attempting to intimidate the help and demands him to print nothing more about it—with the generous concession, however, that he may print the union's case including total falsehoods and personal attacks. If he attempts to answer the personal attacks with counter-attacks on the methods, morals and personal histories of those who are conducting the campaign against him, he is guilty of violating labor's right to organize by sowing suspicion of his leaders among the rank and file.

So the best the Daily Bugle can do is come out with a couple of blank columns in the news section and editorial zone, with a little line over each, reporting that this is where the Bugle would have told the public its own version of the facts and its own opinion of the controversy if the labor relations board had been so kind.

Right to Henry Ford's offense was that he presented

Speak to Ford employees his side of a dispute with the organizers of the CIO Automobile union, and gratuitously added his own opinion that it was inadvisable for the men to join. But, just as a published opinion, that document was not binding on the Ford employees. If Ford took further steps to make it binding, those steps, not the published opinion, would have constituted intimidation or interference.

I do not assume that Mr. Ford told the truth entirely and without bias, and, quite aside from the fact that unionists frequently bruise the truth and boast of their bias and bile, I hold that he still has an equal right to speak or print his piece, subject to the ordinary penalties, which are disproof and discredit for misrepresentation and financial loss and imprisonment for libel.

Imagination need not strain to conceive a case in which the board might order the entire American press to suppress news and comment unfavorable to the union side in a fight involving a national organization with a local in every shop, lest members of these locals feel themselves coerced by their respective publishers.

Inexpensive Poland. Visitors report that amusement and entertainments in Warsaw, Poland, are among the least expensive things in the city; theaters, operas and night clubs are within the reach of tourists with the smallest pocket-books.

Winter Olympics. It is now announced with certainty that the winter Olympic games that were to have been held in St. Moritz, Switzerland, in 1940, will be held at the beautiful twin cities of Garmisch-Partenkirchen in Bavaria, where they were held in 1936.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

HERR VON RIBBENTROP I have seen Joachim von Ribbentrop, who made the Russian treaty for Germany, on two occasions, both in Berlin. He has a ready smile, looks well and is an excellent salesman. Before Adolf Hitler made him his chief reliance in foreign affairs he, Ribbentrop, was a salesman of German champagne.

Ribbentrop reportedly is the only man who may see Hitler without an appointment. Even Hermann Goering must go through some formality.

Ribbentrop is, the records show, the son of a retired army officer in Germany. His father was not of the nobility, his "von" coming from the fact he was adopted by a titled aunt. He entered the army and had a sort of clerk's job in the German delegation signing the 1918 peace treaty, which so embittered the Germans, in the mirrored hall, at Versailles.

He married a wealthy woman, daughter of the chief manufacturer of champagne in Germany. He traveled, learned languages and became tremendously influential with Hitler. He was not, at first, a Nazi but became one after he conducted the negotiations which led to Hitler being made chancellor of Germany. These were the negotiations between the recently deposed chancellor, Von Papen, and Hitler. They led to a deal with the senile Hindenburg on the evening of January 29, 1933. Hitler became chancellor the next day.

They thought they had halted Hitler then. But his agents burned the Reichstag and based it on a false Communistic plot. There was much howling about the Russian Communists and how Germany should unite to eradicate them from the earth. The building burned February 27, a few days before the elections. The elections, on March 5, gave Hitler the power to form a new government. Hitler, by frightening the people with Russia, got what amounted to absolute power.

Then was just in 1933, six short years ago, and yet there were people who years ago underrated the fanatical man who had been labor spy, corporal and revolutionist. They don't underrate him now.

Behind it all is the personality, the mind and the energy of the champagne salesman. He may meet his match. Somewhere he and Hitler may trip. But the path seems fairly clear.

AS TO TREATIES It was Von Ribbentrop who negotiated the English-German naval treaty. This was in 1935.

England agreed to permit Germany to build a navy as large as France's. France didn't like this very much, nor did Italy. But England always is willing to do what will help England, no matter what the effect on others.

I want to write briefly about treaties because England lays such store by them. England had, just a short time before this naval treaty with Germany, affected a "united front" with Italy and France. The naval treaty broke this agreement. Italy and France were angered but could say nothing.

Germany was elated. Since that time Germany has felt, and not without reason, that England was friendly. Indeed, there never has been disproved the charge that England willingly gave the go-ahead sign on Austria. Certainly, England gave the go-ahead sign on the Sudeten territory. Not until the grabbing of Czechoslovakia did England become irritated at this new power.

England has broken as many treaties and "agreements" as any other nation. The most amusing charge is that of calling Russia a "Judas nation." The Russians haven't broken any agreements. They hope England, France and Germany fight to exhaustion. They then will go to work. And not before. The Russians are realists.

THE POLISH PACT Hitler, of course, has broken every agreement made. He is no worse in this respect than England. He happens to lack the usual subtlety of the English.

Hitler swore to the independence of Austria not once but thrice. He then swore to the independence of Czechoslovakia. After taking the Sudeten he swore he wanted nothing except the territory occupied by Germans. Since then he has taken the Czechs, the Slovaks, the Bohemians and has Hungary under his control. He now would add the Poles. This has its amusingly ironic side in the light of Hitler's speech to the German Reich on January 30, 1939, about six months ago. He said, speaking of Poland:

"I have just celebrated the fifth anniversary of our nonaggression pact with Poland. There can scarcely be any difference of opinion today among the true friends of peace with regard to the value of this agreement. One only needs to ask oneself what might have happened to Europe if this agreement had not been entered into. . . . During the troubled months of the past year the friendship between Germany and Poland was one of the reassuring factors in the political life of Europe. That was about six months ago. What made the Poles do in the past six months? Nothing. Hitler has settled his troubles elsewhere. He wants the Polish arms, goods, food, grain, raw materials. The Poles are guilty of possessing them."

Treaties, especially European treaties, are indeed, as the Germans said in 1914, mere scraps of paper.

One Bucket of Water Is Enough If Used When the Fire Starts

By ROBERT QUILLLEN.

Seventy-six years ago this summer, America learned an old and bitter lesson that apparently has been forgotten. Gettysburg was history and Lee had retreated to the south. Grant had opened the Mississippi and the tide definitely had turned but men had been sacrificed by the thousands and there was desperate need of more cannon fodder.

Congress had passed the first conscription act, containing the incredibly foolish provision that any man drafted might escape service on payment of $300. It meant that rich men were exempt and the poor made immediate and violent protest.

The draft began in New York. Over 200,000 of the city's people were Irish, most of them newly arrived immigrants, and these began rioting when the first names were drawn.

Led by southern sympathizers, and quickly joined by every gangster in a gang-ridden town, Irish mobs began to loot, murder and burn.

They were not small groups, but mob armies numbering from ten to fifty thousand, armed with guns, clubs, sections of gas pipe and stones, howling and roaring through the streets, wild drunk and crazy with blood lust and rage. A looted warehouse and 5,000 saloons kept them drunk day and night.

There were less than 1,500 police in the city, and all soldiers had been sent to the front. The forces of law were outnumbered ten to one.

Friends, Relatives Greet Bishop Warren Candler On 82d Birthday Anniversary; Married Since 1877

Methodist Minister Thanks
Wife for Happiness, Guiding Hand.

By BETTY MATHIS.
Stay out of arguments, do your duty without complaining and get yourself a good life, if you want to live a long and happy life, says Bishop Warren A. Candler, who yesterday celebrated his 82d birthday anniversary at his home, 1653 North Decatur road.

He sat out of doors all afternoon and received many friends and relatives who came to offer congratulations. He praised his wife constantly and declared that she was responsible for his happiness and for keeping him out of mischief.

The Candlers have been married since 1877, almost 62 years. And both declare that they would make the same choice again, even though they know that life holds many hardships.

No Health Rules.
Asked if he or his 80-year-old wife follows any rules for health, the bishop chuckled and said, "No, we have always had the health so we didn't need any rules."

Of course, the European situation came up for discussion, for the bishop and his wife are avid newspaper readers. "The bishop feels that war will not come soon. Bishop Candler carries his years lightly, and although his thick hair is white, his face is unlined. He reads without glasses as does Mrs. Candler. He explains his youthful appearance by stating that "I was born pretty."

This jolly old man doesn't think much of politics. "There was a time when men resigned from office when their party adopted a platform in which they did not believe, but those days are gone. There is too much politics and too little honesty in modern government."

Many of the Candlers have held public office, but the bishop hastened to explain that they had their positions urged upon them.

BISHOP WARREN A. CANDLER.

"The Candler family has never been an office-seeking gang, thank God. My brother, who was asked to run for congress, declined, saying, 'No, I am a lawyer and a gentleman. I think most of us have felt the same way.'"

As for his theories of government, this 82-year-old Methodist preacher feels that "it is the duty of the people to support the government, not the government the people." Hence he thinks little of the social security program.

Journalism, too, is not what it used to be, says the bishop, who took a turn in the newspaper business himself many years ago. Modern newspapers lean too much toward the sensational, he feels.

A letter delivered in the afternoon from his brother, Judge John Candler, brought the comment: "I had better look into this. It might be a dun." It turned out, however, to be a birthday greeting and a check from the only other living child of the original family of 11.

Samuel C. Dobbs, the bishop's nephew, arrived on crutches to pay his respects despite a broken leg.

The bishop told many stories of his youth. He described vividly the visit of Stoneman's raiders when they came to his home in Carroll county seeking to hang his father. He proudly told of how his mother rebuked the Union soldiers and refused to be intimidated.

Courage Displayed.
Much of his mother's courage is displayed in the son who many times has faced harsh criticism in refusing to "compromise with raciality."

Preacher, writer, educator (he served for 10 years as president of Oxford), he can look back on a life full of accomplishment, a life of hardship, at times, but of happiness.

"As I get along toward the end, I thank God that my conscience is clear. I always have tried to do my duty. My darling wife always has been brave and helpful. In fact I have never heard Miss Nette complain. We have lived a long time, and the only thing remarkable about our lives is that there has been nothing remarkable."

The Candlers have three children, John C., Samuel Charles and Annie Florence, now Mrs. Andrew Siedd.

JAMES T. LASSETER DIES AT HAPEVILLE

Rites Today for Confederate
Lieutenant Who Served at Andersonville.

James Taylor Lasseter, 93, of 3678 Georgia avenue, a Confederate veteran and the oldest resident in Hapeville, died early yesterday at his home.

A lieutenant in the Civil War, he was a native of Clayton county, and enlisted in Company 1, Second Georgia Reserve regiment at the age of 17. He was stationed for a time at the Confederate prison at Andersonville, Ga., and was promoted from the ranks.

Later he made his home for a time at Covington but had been living at Hapeville for more than 30 years. His first wife was the former Miss Martha Huie, of Clayton county, and after her death he married the former Miss Nannie McNair.

Surviving are a son, Jesse T. Lasseter; a daughter, Miss Sadie Lasseter, both of Hapeville, and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of C. Hemperley & Sons. Burial will be in College Park cemetery.

GOOD MORNING By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

PRAYING GROUND.

A friend had to go through a very unpleasant ordeal with an associate, resulting in a final dissolution of partnership. The disgruntled partner sent many sharp and unfair letters to the man who had gone out of his way to do the right thing. Never once did the friend reply in kind, but always in courteous terms.

The disgruntled man finally remarked, "How does this man manage to reply to my letters in such courteous language? Why doesn't he talk like I talk?"

When apprised of the remark, the friend said: "I must keep on praying ground. If I allowed myself to hate this man and to sink to the level of vituperation, I couldn't pray for him."

Since learning of the above incident, I have often thought what it signifies for all of us who profess to be Christians. If only we can keep on praying ground, all problems can be rightly solved—all problems in the home, in the community, in the world.

One cannot pray for another if there is hatred in his heart. (Read Matthew 5:21-26.) And turn to that marvelous guide to Christian living, the 12th chapter of Romans, and note particularly the 10th verse.

"Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love, in honor preferring one another." Again in the 17th verse: "Recompense to no man evil for evil." But someone will say this is too high a level for everyday living—that men cannot be expected to refrain from hating one another. Very well, I agree that it is too high for men if left to themselves, but note the basis of such living: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world, but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God."

And this is possible for any and for all who will accept Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord, repenting of sin and turning to Him in faith believing. "By grace are ye saved through faith, and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God."

We can keep on praying ground in all the relationships of life, if we trust in Him. And thus every problem may be turned into a grand opportunity for service to our day and generation by the grace of God.

JOB REPLACEMENTS.

LAGRANGE, Ga., Aug. 23.—Approximately 5 per cent of replacements made in July by the Georgia State Employment Service were made through the LaGrange office, figures indicate. Of 7,314 replacements in the state, the local office handled 406, with 332 being made in private works jobs and 74 in public works.

PARDON DEAL TOLD AT BRIDGES TRIAL

Witness Claims Officer Proposed a 'Price.'

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Testimony concerning an alleged "pardon deal" for evidence against Harry Bridges was given at the deportation hearing of the west coast CIO labor leader today by Garfield A. King, Vancouver (B. C.) lawyer.

Another defense witness, A. C. Bundy, former Communist and acquaintance of John Leech, principal government witness, said he once overheard Detective William Browne, of the Portland (Ore.) police, ask Leech to "name his price" if he would link Bridges with the Communist party.

ROOSEVELT RACES FOR WASHINGTON; HULL ENDS VACATION

CAPITAL WONDERS IF F. D. R. WILL FIRE 'SHOT FOR PEACE'

Ship's Wireless Constantly Humming With Rapid-Fire News; Special Train To Meet Him.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(AP) President Roosevelt hurried home from a suddenly-terminated vacation cruise today while Washington wondered if it was his intention—using his own phrase for it—to “fire another shot for peace” in Europe.

High officials of the State Department made arrangements to go into conference with the chief executive immediately upon his return—scheduled for midday tomorrow—and also to go over the situation at once with Secretary Hull. The State Department chief returned from his vacation today. Meanwhile, State and Treasury Department officers were meeting to discuss America's position in case war actually developed abroad. They were concerned with the grave questions of keeping domestic business on a steady keel, safeguarding the foreign value of the dollar, and the problem of removing American citizens from war-menaced regions.

F. D. R. Aboard Ship. Mr. Roosevelt was aboard the U. S. S. Tuscaloosa, keeping in touch with the fast-moving European events by means of dispatches from the State Department which kept the ship's radio men hard at work.

Although the chief executive had intended to do some fishing in the gulf stream and to reach Annapolis, Md.—within short motoring distance of the White House—Saturday morning, plans were suddenly changed today. The Tuscaloosa, delayed by fog, headed for Sandy Hook, N. J. Officials arranged that a special train should meet the President there.

Roosevelt Silent. Mr. Roosevelt declined to give any inkling of what measures he might have in mind. News men on the destroyer Lang, accompanying the Tuscaloosa, sent a radio message to the President's ship saying they wanted to know: Whether a European war would necessitate a special session of congress to consider neutrality legislation.

Whether there was a possibility that Ambassador Steinhardt might be recalled from Russia to report on the implications of the Russo-German nonaggression pact, now under negotiation.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt planned any other than routine conferences upon his arrival here.

In reply, a presidential secretary radioed merely: “Early this morning, the President decided to return to Washington at once because of the international situation.”

“Nothing Spectacular.” Here at the White House, however, another secretary, Stephen T. Early, said there was “nothing spectacular” about the sudden return to the capital. The State Department had advised the chief executive, he added, that if he came back on Friday that would be soon enough.

Washington puzzled, meanwhile, over what the President might do. It has never been his disposition, at a time of crisis in Europe, to sit back and do nothing. He has felt, and repeatedly said, that it is the duty of this country, for the sake both of preserving peace and protecting its own interests, to bring its influence to bear against war.

Thus, in the course of last September's sudden crisis, he twice appealed to Hitler for peace; again last spring, after Hitler had seized the remnants of Czechoslovakia and Mussolini had taken Albania, he asked both dictators for pledges that they would not send their armies crashing into states now independent. In return he promised American participation in a general economic conference aimed at giving all access to raw materials and world trade.

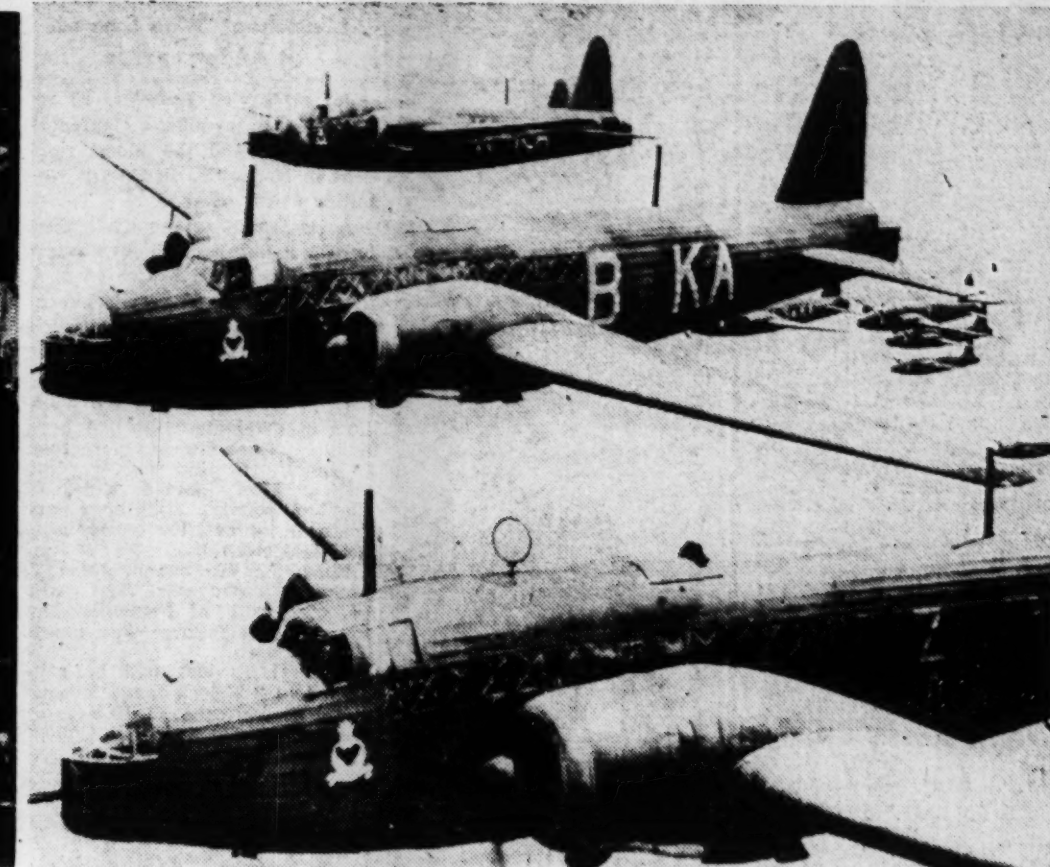

Plans Speculative. Whether he would send an other appeal was a subject of much speculation.

British-French 'Shuttle Service' of Bombing Planes Poised for Round-Trip Death Raids

German armament plants, such as the one above which turns out gun barrels at Dusseldorf, will be the principal targets of a “shuttle” air raid technique outlined by British military experts Tuesday as the German-Polish ension reached a fever pitch. French and British planes would fly from French bases over Germany, dropping heavy loads of bombs, land in Poland, reload and refuel for another destructive flight over Reich arm plants.

“For a start, our Wellington bombers (above) can fly to every capital in Europe,” said British air ministry spokesmen in outlining a strategy for aiding Poland should the Danzig crisis bring war with Germany. The war experts said such planes as these, augmented by French ships, could start from French bases in shuttle flights to Poland and return dropping bombs in Germany in virtually continuous round-trip raids.

JAPS, SPANISH SAY ANTI-RED PACT DEAD

Germany Has Made Communism Treaty ‘Scrap of Paper,’ Press Reports.

TOKYO (Thursday), Aug. 24.—(UP)—The Nazi-Soviet non-aggression pact reduces the Italo-German-Japanese alliance against Communism to a “scrap of paper,” the independent and liberal newspaper Asahi said today.

In a sharply worded editorial which reflected Japanese bitterness over Germany's adhesion to a friendly agreement with Japan's potential enemy, the newspaper said:

“It is only too obvious that Germany's conclusion of a pact of amity with the very source of danger to the anti-Communist group reduces the anti-Communist agreement to a scrap of paper.”

The newspaper added that “the absurdity of Japan concluding a non-aggression pact with the Soviet Union is no less patent.”

REPORT SPAIN, TOO, SAYS FACT IS DEAD

LONDON (Thursday), Aug. 24. (UP)—Generalissimo Franco, of Spain, regards the signing of the German-Soviet pact of nonaggression as annulling the anti-Communist pact to which Spain is a signatory, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch said early today.

The dispatch, from Lisbon, and quoting a message from Madrid, said that Franco immediately announced that Spain is “reassuming her full liberty of action” in matters of foreign policy.

JAPAN PREPARING FOR SWIFT ACTION

TOKYO, Aug. 24.—(Thursday) (P)—The Japanese army and navy were reported today by Domei, Japanese news agency, to have reached “complete agreement” on steps to take in reply to the German-Soviet Russian nonaggression pact negotiations.

The nature of the agreement was not disclosed and the government maintained official silence, but there were indications preparations were under way for swift action once the full import of the projected pact is determined.

Whether the pact was centered on these three choices if the pact proves sufficiently effective to necessitate a change in Japan's status quo:

1. Complete aloofness from European affairs while taking advantage of British and French concern there to push her campaign in China, but risking increased Soviet activity in the Far East.

2. Patching up the rifts of her friendship with Britain, France and the United States.

3. But keeping the anti-Communist pact as a self-defense measure. (Japan is allied with Germany, Italy, Hungary, Manchoukuo and Spain in the anti-Communist pact in a pledge to combat the spread of Communism.)

Previously Japanese had been represented as lukewarm, at least, to an alliance with the axis powers, while the army urged it.

negotiations August 12 with Russia for a tri-power military alliance, conferred among themselves as they listened to reports from abroad on the European situation as a whole.

Neither British nor French quarters would disclose their plans. They maintained a grim silence as they awaited orders from their home governments. The Italian ambassador, August-Rocco, was at the airport to greet Von Ribbentrop who emerged from the plane clad in civilian clothes. But the Japanese ambassador, whose country looks on the German-Soviet negotiations with deep misgivings, was markedly absent.

The Soviet public learned of Von Ribbentrop's presence here for the first time when the news was broadcast briefly shortly before midnight.

European War Perils Americas, Dean of U. S. Historians Predicts

Professor Hart Says First and Most Dangerous Rearrangement of Political Powers of Eastern Europe Is Willingness of Russia to Collaborate With Germany.

(Professor Emeritus Albert Bushnell Hart, of Harvard University, 85-year-old dean of American historians, has accurately predicted virtually every Hitler move of the past two years. In the following article, he gives his views on the current crisis.)

By ALBERT BUSHNELL HART.

DUBLIN, N. H., Aug. 23.—(UP)—The statesmen and plain citizens of countries in which public opinion is not looked upon as a crime, have, ever since the Czechoslovakian episode, been aware that the future of the present crisis—has not depended on German political tactics, forcible annexations or suppression of free government.

The real issue has been the attitude of Russia, which is complicated by the fact that a large part of Poland was a province of Russia a century or so ago. The first and most dangerous rearrangement of political powers of eastern Europe is the apparent willingness of Russia to collaborate with Germany.

Wants Part of Poland. As political power is distributed in that part of the world, Russia must intend to repossess that part of Poland which once was Russia—and as much territory in addition as its new side-partner will think safe for Germany and German conquests.

For years I have been predicting the danger of a general European war. The Germans could, within a few hours, occupy Holland with its superior forts and its convenient air-attack on England and France. Not since Napoleon Bonaparte has Great Britain been in such danger of overwhelming invasion.

But Europe, east, west, north or south, is far from being all the world—military or political. Fail to Consider Asia. One of the most astonishing things in the steadily enlarging danger to which the British and French nations is their non-consideration of Asia. If Japan were not busied in establishing a footing in China, it probably would be forming up to prevent Russia from penetrating into central Asia.

In my mind the future of Russia is not the western, but an eastern trend. No one seems able to make an authoritative statement as to how far the Germans will give a free hand to Russia to strike into the vitals of Asia.

What immediately concerns the United States is that we front upon an ocean whose farther boundary is Asia. On one visit to the Hawaiian Islands I was convinced that the only helpful protection against an Asiatic state which desired to invade our west coast was that group of islands.

Danger Multiplied. Previously I have urged the United States to get ready for invasion of its territory, continental or Pacific, from other parts of the world—a danger which is multiplied ten times by the present understanding between Germany and Russia.

The German methods of warfare is an attack in the rear upon the Pacific possessions and interests of the United States.

For some years I have been struck by the fact that something like a fifth of the land area of the world is made by Central and South America. Many good and otherwise sensible people suppose that the Panama Canal has given the United States prime control of Central American if not South American politics.

The present crisis doubtless seems “a foreign affair” to most Americans in which we are not called upon to risk our wealth or the lives of our citizens.

South America Next. It does not seem a hazardous guess to predict that if a German-Russian combined force takes possession of Europe—and so far the opposing forces of Europe are not organized sufficiently for self-pro-

RUMANIA INTENDS TO STAY NEUTRAL

Nation, With 850,000 Men Under Arms, To Fight Only If Attacked.

BUCHAREST, Aug. 23.—(P)—Rumania, with 850,000 men under arms, declared tonight she was determined to remain neutral if war came to Europe and would fight only if attacked. King Carol and his ministers apparently had defined the policy of neutrality some weeks ago.

The foreign office disclosed that Poland was informed “some time ago” of Rumania's intention to remain neutral.

“That intention is unchanged,” a spokesman said tonight. It was pointed out that Poland and Rumania have a treaty for military co-operation if either is attacked by Russia, but there is no provision regarding possible German invasion.

Poland was believed to have placed great dependence on Rumania for transporting military supplies from Britain and France.

Whether neutrality would mean closing the common frontier with Poland. It is little more than 100 miles long, flanked by Russia and Hungary.

BLUES, BLACKS MEET IN PLATTSBURG SECTOR

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 23. (P)—An invading “Black” army and a corps of “Blue” defenders met each other tonight along a 16-mile front.

Sharp advance guard fighting occurred at scattered places late in the afternoon.

Approximately 36,000 national guardsmen from eight states, assembled here for the first army maneuvers, compose the “Black” forces. The “Blues” consist of 16,000 regulars, equipped for high speed warfare.

The “Blacks” have theoretically effected a landing on the New England coast and are moving in a southwesterly direction to strike at New York city.

HITLER ADAMANT OVER POLISH GRAB

Insists That Poles Yield All, Either Peacefully or as Spoils of War.

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER.

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—(P)—Adolf Hitler appeared tonight once again to hold Europe's fate in his hands, adhering firmly to his demands upon Poland which a reliable informant said now included acceptance by the Poles of a protectorate government.

The demands, according to trustworthy information, were dispatched yesterday to most European capitals as follows:

1. Unconditional return of Danzig.

2. Cession of those sections of Poland which were German before the World War (Poznan, Posen, Pomorze, or the so-called Polish corridor, and Polish Upper Silesia).

3. Acceptance of a protectorate for the area remaining, similar to that of Bohemia and Moravia, parts of former Czechoslovakia.

Hitler's Alternatives. The British ambassador, Sir Neville Henderson, was said to have restated Britain's pledge to aid Poland as an answer to these demands in a call at Hitler's Berchtesgaden home today.

The expose to other governments is said to have contained Hitler's two alternatives for a Polish settlement:

Either Poland accepts these terms and permits Germany peacefully to occupy the sections claimed, or Poland fights, with the result that Germany will see to it that she is partitioned once again as has been her fate in the past.

Hitler assured tonight that Prime Minister Chamberlain was continuing his efforts on behalf of peace.

“Too Late,” Says Germany. “Too late,” was in effect the German dictator's reply, it was ascertained reliably.

Hitler, according to the official German news bureau, DNB, “left no doubt in the mind of the Polish ambassador that the obligations assumed by the British government could not induce Germany to renounce her championship of national interests vital to the streets, in restaurants, or in the life of the Reich.”

Three questions were on everyone's lips as they met today on society:

Friday Zero Hour. 1. Will the Fuehrer strike on Friday, as it has generally been assumed by Germans in all walks of life as well as those in the foreign colonies of Berlin?

2. Might he even decide to press the button for a showdown with Poland tonight, in the hope of completing his coup before the British parliament can get together tomorrow?

3. Will he succeed in persuading the Poles that their position is hopeless, thereby insuring another bloodless conquest for himself?

Those who still believed Hitler would have his way without bloodshed pointed to assurances attributed to the British prime minister that he was doing his utmost to persuade the Poles to negotiate.

They also pointed to rumors current in financial circles that Mussolini was pressing upon Poland to meet the German demands.

Newsman Leave Berlin. That the British and the French take a serious view of the situation was attested by the fact that all except five British and one French correspondent have left the capital.

Besides these newsmen, only the embassy and consular staffs are still in Berlin; all other French and British citizens have departed.

The German government, too, has a more serious view. The anti-aircraft guns on public buildings, for instance, which peeped forth so conspicuously during the September crisis, were again in place in the capital.

DANZIG SPEEDS UP WAR PREPARATIONS

Trucks Loaded With Troops, Arms Roll Toward Polish Frontier.

DANZIG, Aug. 23.—(UP)—Heavily loaded army trucks rolled out of Danzig tonight carrying men and arms to fortifications along the Polish frontier while Nazi leaders said they were “waiting only for Berlin's word” setting the time for the Free City's restoration to Germany.

With the tempo of Danzig's military preparations being speeded up hourly, apace with those of Germany and Poland, informed German quarters said they were confident that a showdown would come soon.

Several British residents sent their wives and children to England and plans were made for the rapid evacuation of all Britons remaining here.

The United States colony in Danzig comprises a scant half-dozen persons, most of whom had no immediate plans to leave.

The estimates of the number of men which Danzig's military leaders could send into the newly dug trenches varied. Polish quarters estimated that nearly 20,000 men would be available, including the S. S. Heimwehr (home guards) and the armed police. Nazis placed the figure at between 20,000 and 25,000 but neutrals believed a figure of 10,000 would be more accurate.

FRANCE INCREASES ARMY TO 2 MILLION WITH WAR FEARED

Taxis Requisitioned for Plastering Paris With Mobilization Orders; Pact Is Doleful News.

PARIS, Aug. 24 (Thursday).—(P) Posters calling two French classes to arms were plastered on government buildings early today as France increased her armed forces to almost 2,000,000 men in a partial mobilization against a feared clash with Germany.

Announcement that a German-Soviet Russian non-aggression pact had been signed in Moscow caused deep pessimism in France.

Government sources had said prior to the Moscow announcement that signing of the pact would make it "almost impossible to avoid war over Germany's Danzig claims."

Taxis Requisitioned.
Requisitioned taxis early today in Paris carried "bucket brigades" to various government buildings, where they pasted up the posters. Automobiles and trucks also were requisitioned.

The first to be posted were the requisition orders, which read: "The right of requisition is opened in the commune of Paris beginning Thursday, the 24th of August, 1939, at zero hour."

Little knots of early-morning home goers drearily read the posters. They winced, then made their way home, darkly mindful of a repetition of the exhausting death struggle of 1914-1918.

A few wept in the rain-washed streets.

French government officials had clung to the hope the German-Soviet pact would not be signed, but would drag into endless negotiations.

Danzig Forgotten.
On the diplomatic front Danzig was almost forgotten.

Reports from the French ambassador, Robert Coulondre, at Berlin, said the Nazis planned on taking Danzig before August 31, but French sources said that the magnitude of the crisis left any concern about Danzig far behind.

The French view was simply that Germany's military preparations and press campaign, diplomatic moves and all the machinery of her "war of nerves" had gone too far to stop if the effect of a quick signature of the pact in Moscow was added to it.

The widely held and frequently expressed opinion of most Frenchmen was "since the autumn of 1938 we went through everything except war itself and we know worrying helps the other side."

TESTIMONY GIVEN ON INSURANCE FIELD

44 Stock Firms Earned 140 Million in Dividends, Committee Told.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(P)—The national economic committee heard testimony today that 44 stock companies which did a major share of the business in the industrial insurance field had earned $140,000,000 in stock dividends, cash and surplus on an original investment of approximately $6,000,000.

W. S. B. Lacy, financial consultant of the Securities and Exchange Commission, told the committee that most of these profits had gone to a relatively small number of stockholders.

Lacy testified that, in a majority of cases, five persons controlled more than 50 per cent of the stock of the company involved and drew large salaries in addition to their dividends.

British Cancel Sailings to Baltic

LONDON, Aug. 23.—(P)—British east coast shipowning firms tonight jointly cancelled the sailings of all vessels due to leave for Baltic or German ports.

Further sailings were suspended indefinitely until the international situation is clarified. One Newcastle vessel which was at sea on her way to Hamburg was recalled by radio.

War Risk Rates Increased 20-Fold.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(P)—War risk insurance rates on shipments of goods to Germany and Italy from the United States were increased 20-fold today by marine insurance underwriters.

The new rates, applying to all transatlantic surface shipping, will go into effect at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

The war risk rates from the United States to the British Isles remain unchanged, underwriters saying they believed the British navy would be able to control the northern shipping routes in event of hostilities.

Britain Reinforces Mediterranean Fleet

LONDON, Aug. 23.—(P)—An admiralty official said tonight that Great Britain was sending reinforcements to the Mediterranean fleet to bring it up to its full strength.

There was no indication how many men were being sent. It was known, however, that several train loads crossed France today en route to Toulon where they were to join the fleet.

Greek Reserves Called to Colors

ATHENS, Aug. 23.—(P)—Artillerymen, cavalrymen and telegraph operators belonging to the 1936 and 1937 classes were called to the colors tonight for participation in military exercises.

London Market Rallies Slightly

LONDON, Aug. 23.—(P)—London stock prices rallied fractionally above the previous finish toward the close of today's market, but fears so predominated the financial scene that trading was virtually at a standstill.

Improvement was ascribed by traders principally to unconfirmed rumors that Russia would refuse to sign the projected non-aggression pact with Germany without a German reservation not to attack Poland or Rumania.

The market had closed long before the arrival of news from Berlin that Hitler had rebuffed the British ambassador.

Gibraltar Made Ready for Attack

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 23.—(P)—Elaborate military preparations were made here today as boom defenses were placed in the harbor and all guns manned 24 hours.

The frontier with Spain was reinforced and plans were prepared for evacuation of women and children. English and French warships and an air force detachment were expected shortly.

Nazis Charge Poles Fire at Civilian Planes

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—(P)—The German official news agency (DNB) reported Polish cannon had fired at two German civilian transport planes today. Neither plane was hit.

The three-motored plane "D-ABHF," aboard which were 17 passengers including four children, was fired upon by a Polish naval vessel and Polish coast defense batteries off the coast of Danzig, the news service said.

Britain Bans Export Of War Materials

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(P)—The Board of Trade tonight issued an order prohibiting the export of essential war materials from Britain, except under license.

Commodities affected by the ban included aluminum, copper, lead, iron and steel scrap, raw cotton, rubber and nickel.

The order followed a decision taken at yesterday's cabinet meeting.

Refugees Jam German Trains

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—(P)—All avenues of travel out of Germany were jammed today with French and British citizens and other foreigners fleeing for fear of war.

No seats in airplanes could be obtained after early morning.

Trains ran throughout the day with corridors filled.

British and French citizens were advised by their local diplomatic officials to leave Germany. The French step followed upon a direct order transmitted from Paris to the French ambassador, Robert Coulondre.

U. S. Consul Warns Riviera Tourists

CANNES, Aug. 23.—(P)—United States consular authorities at Nice advised American tourists at the French Riviera today to plan seriously to leave the resort coast near the Italian frontier.

They said the advice should not be interpreted as an order to evacuate Nice, Monte Carlo and Mentone, but that American citizens in those zones should follow international developments closely.

Sources close to the Duke and Duchess of Windsor said they plan to remain indefinitely at the Chateau de Valmer.

Market gardeners recently sent 300 pounds of rhubarb to the British House of Commons where it was cooked in 50 different ways.

NEW TRIAL DENIED FOR THELMA RICE

Officer's 'Familiarity' With Jurymen Cited.

FORT MYERS, Fla., Aug. 23.—(P)—Circuit Judge George Whitehurst today overruled defense arguments for a new trial and sentenced Thelma Rice to 10 years in prison for manslaughter in connection with the slaying of Earl Haskew during a nude dawn drinking party July 15 at Fort Myers Beach.

Defense attorneys contended L. M. "Dad" Stroup, veteran law enforcement officer, was "too familiar" with jurymen during the trial while serving as bailiff, and congratulated each juror after they had brought in the verdict.

Mrs. Rice was convicted last week by a jury which reduced to manslaughter the second-degree murder charge for shooting the 30-year-old filling station bookkeeper with his own pistol.

Mrs. Rice, a 28-year-old waitress from Rockmart, Ga., said on trial that "I shot him because I was afraid he was going to beat me to death or drown me."

Anita Boyce, First of House Party To Arrive, Hopes to Marry Harley

By CAROLYN WELLS.

SYNOPSIS.—At a cocktail party in Amy Crosby's home in Manhattan, Craig Madison introduces himself to Yvette Verne, a new movie star, after he overheard her quarreling violently with Billy Gomez, a man unknown to him. The actress soon learns that Craig is the son of her uncle, and when Craig invites her to spend the week end at the estate of his uncle, Harley Madison, in New Plymouth, Long Island, she becomes interested. She tells Craig she has heard of his uncle, who is regarded as an eccentric philanthropist. Craig says that his uncle needs money, and that if she will be an understanding friend to the wealthy man it will help matters. Miss Verne thereupon accepts the invitation. Craig and his cousin, Tom Sheldon, both orphans, were brought up by their Uncle Harley, a widower. He lives with his sister, Cornelia, who helps him in his business. Harley's secretary, a spoiled housekeeper, and Ames, his secretary, Harley recently got the idea to rejuvenate the shabby town of New Plymouth, forming a syndicate for that purpose. The plan makes necessary a change in his will. He now intends to leave two-thirds of his estate to the town and divide the remainder among his sister and nephews. Harley's plan to improve the town, which would throw Craig, the architect working on building plans out of the house, Harley wants to know the reason for the actions of the traitors to this cause. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT IV.—He did not want to carry on further without some more definite information, so he left the question of emblazoned names drift away, and brought up one or two less dangerous subjects. He even introduced a spirit of levity into his conversation, and fairly early he declared he must go home, but the others could discuss plans at their leisure.

As Hiram Riley said after he had gone, he didn't fool anybody. "He was flabbergasted, that's what he was," Riley declared. "He wanted to get away and think it over by himself. Silver Hill, never talks till he's drunk it well over. Do you know what I believe? I believe he'll resign."

"Resign from what?" asked Potter. "He ain't got any position to resign from."

"Well, he has," Mason assured him. "We're not an organized body yet, but in an informal way we're sort of connected, and we've always called Mr. Madison president. And I can tell you if he does resign, or leave, or whatever you choose to call it, the improvement of this strip of ours explodes into thin air."

"Nothing of the sort," Potter told him. "Our dictatorial friend severs relations. I know who is ready to step into the breach, and perhaps fill it more acceptably than the nabob of Silver Hill."

"Meaning your utter asinine self!" exclaimed Job Hendricks. "I reckon you'll find you're going it alone, then!"

"Better alone than in poor company. And as this company is none too cordial, I think I'll seek some more congenial spirits."

"I should have said all spirits are congenial to you," Job observed with an intentionally annoying grin.

"Guess you're about right," Potter agreed, and left, having no desire to get into a real quarrel just then.

Harley Madison walked home across the village green. He did not let the events of the evening weigh too heavily on his mind, for he knew they would grant anything he asked before they would lose his support.

But he looked round at the green with apprehension. For months he had had visions of the oval, reconstituted as to vegetation, reclaimed as to symmetry and shapeliness, the big trees trimmed and cared for, and a very secret ambition, a little pond in the middle, with a tiny rustic bridge and lots of iris growing around.

He had mentioned this to nobody but Cornelia, who adored the idea, but he was sure the boys would laugh at it.

He thought over the men who had stood up against him.

He was peace-loving, and he hated the thought of real dissension, but something must be done.

He must find out for a certainty, just what those traitors to the cause were doing. He must know at once, for he couldn't go another step in the dark. They had planned a meeting next week to organize themselves. He felt sure he would be the president, but did he want to be president of a bunch of traitors? He'd resign first.

And that would throw Craig out of business. For Craig was hard at work on plans for various buildings. A rising young architect, the boy welcomed this chance, and how could his uncle snatch it from him?

He wondered how he could find out what he wanted to know. Perhaps Cornelia could help, and if she could she would.

Although it seemed to Craig Madison that Friday would never come, the old elder kept up his stolid diurnal motion, and Friday did come.

Anita Boyce was the first of the house party to arrive. She came early in the afternoon, determined to get all of the occasion that she possibly could.

She was a pretty little widow, short of stature, and would have been dumpy of figure but for the extreme cleverness of her modiste. She had been a friend of Florence, Harley Madison's wife, and in their early married years the four had been a congenial quartet. Then Anita's husband died, and almost immediately she assumed that it was written in the book of fate she should marry Harley.

Harley didn't see eye to eye with her, but she still had hopes. She came frequently to Silver Hill, she used all her blandishments on a rather disinterested host. Anita was a strong believer in persistence.

So, when she arrived she went at once to the best suite, which had always been hers when she visited there, and was rejoiced to find it was still hers. For she had greatly feared it would be given over to the celebrity whose coming seemed to be a matter of great pride to the entire household.

Cornelia Madison's competent maid, Jenny, was a little abashed as she looked after Mrs. Boyce's belongings.

"Mind what you're about, Jenny," Anita said, crossly. "I suppose you're fair daft at the thought of having a motion picture actress to look after."

"I fear I am, Mrs. Boyce," and Jenny laughed, good-naturedly. "I've seen the lady on the screen and she is so lovely I'm wondering if she can be like that in real life."

"You'll soon have a chance to find out. Don't stand there crumpling that organdy shirtwaist in your hands!"

"No, ma'am," and Jenny tried to put her attention on her work. Anita decided to wear a casual dinner gown, a very smart affair that was surely beyond the criticism of any glamorous girl that ever stepped out of Hollywood. Jenny helped her into it with exclamations of approval. With a few final pokes and pats to her rolls of yellow hair, Anita went downstairs, paused in the doorway, with one hand on the door frame, and smilingly waited for applause.

Harley Madison knew his lines. "Welcome, my Anita!" he cried out and rose, greeting her with outstretched hands.

She knew Laura and George Lee, was delighted to meet a new man, Gifford Hale, and finally settled down beside her host with a rather definite air of proprietorship.

Harley, however, did not play up. He excused himself, saying that he had important telephoning to attend to. Bidding Ames to come with him, he went to the study.

"How are things going in the town?" Anita asked as Craig Madison came over and sat beside her.

"Not so good. There was rather a stormy meeting a few nights ago, and its results are developing, slowly but unpleasantly."

"Is Harley upset?"

"Oh, he never gets upset, but it keeps him guessing."

"Tell me," Anita reached her goal at last, "tell me, Craig, about this fancy lady you've picked up. What is she like?"

"If you mean Yvette Verne, I don't like the term you use. She isn't like any one else; she's a goddess."

"Hard hit, are you?"

"Oh, everybody is who sees her."

Anita, who rather fancied herself one, was not pleased.

"You're not interesting to me any more. Go away and send that Hale man over here. He's looking at me as if he wanted to come."

She smiled, to take away any hint of ill temper.

Craig went on the errand, Clifford Gale came duly, and Anita promptly made eyes at him.

Her eyes were large and blue, a beautiful cerulean, but with no shadows or reservations. Her carefully preserved blond beauty was all her fancy painted it, but the slightly injured look she habitually wore was fatal to her otherwise pretty charm. Her really golden hair was done by the most famous coiffeur, in the most stilted and artificial style.

Hetty, who had caught sight of her, told the cook that Mrs. Boyce's head looked like a haystack, cut and dried.

Cornelia, with her gracious ease, rescued Gifford Hale and gave him over to Laura Lee, while she sent Tom Sheldon to play around with Anita.

Craig was outside patrolling the drive when, to his great relief and delight, Yvette's car appeared, far down the long driveway.

The girl was smiling to herself; she was going to be one of a house party, only one member of which she knew anything about. And she could scarcely be said to know much about him, for that short interview at Amy Crosby's meant little by way of acquaintance.

But, she told herself, a friendship with this Madison family might mean a lot to her, for she often felt the need of talking some other language than the jargon and argot of Hollywood. And since this opportunity presented itself, she was going to make the most of it, and she fully intended to become the joy of the party and the Golden Girl of Silver Hill.

EUROPEAN CRISIS SENDS AMERICANS RUSHING TO SHIPS

U. S. Tourists in France Begin to Leave; Sailings Increase Almost Over Night Due to War Scare.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Americans caught in Europe's crisis began to leave France today for safety in the United States.

United States consular authorities at Nice told those asking advice to consider seriously leaving resort towns "near the Italian frontier." Most of the American tourists congregated along the French Riviera.

The authorities emphasized that their "advice" should not be interpreted as an evacuation order.

In other sections of France, American envoys told questioning Americans:

"If you have no urgent business, why stay?"

Schedules Listed.

This was the situation of the Americans seeking last-minute passage home:

United States Lines: Washington sailing from Le Havre tomorrow completely full. Accommodations may be available around September 17 or 18. In case of war, the President Roosevelt, which reaches Le Havre Friday, would be available for a quick turn-around trip to New York, eliminating its scheduled call at Hamburg.

French Line: A few first-class places still left on the Champlain sailing August 29. No other sailings until after September 1.

Cunard Line: Booked solidly up to September 8.

Pan-American Airways: All clippers completely booked until September 17, and a waiting list "as long as your arm."

Telephone and telegraph lines were jammed.

Sailings Increase.

While there was no question of panic among the Americans, the number of sailings increased almost overnight.

Among those sailing on the Washington tomorrow are Mrs. Sarah Roosevelt, mother of the President, and his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Roosevelt. However, their sailing had been scheduled for some time.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor said they planned to remain indefinitely at their summer home in Cap d'Antibes.

Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, wife of the American ambassador to London, and six of her children, planned to leave Cannes tonight for Lourdes to visit the shrine of the Virgin there. The ambassador suddenly returned to London yesterday.

Some 800 passengers were being taken aboard tonight at Cherbourg by the Cunard liner Aquitania and the German liner Bremen.

RADIO TODAY BRINGS OVERSEAS COMMENT

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Overseas broadcasts in connection with the European crisis, as announced in advance for Thursday (Atlanta time) include:

WEAF-WJZ-NBC, 8:30 a. m., from London, expected summation of Prime Minister Chamberlain's address to parliament.

NBC-CBS-MBS, 3:30 p. m., 10-minute statement by Lord Halifax, British foreign secretary, from No. 10 Downing Street, London.

WEAF-NBC, 5:30, John Gunther from Riga, Latvia, comment.

WJZ-NBC, 6:45, Yvon Delbos from Paris, discussion.

Other broadcasts, in keeping with developments, are expected.

Besides the overseas pickups, the talk of Senator Gerald P. Nye, Republican, North Dakota, on the international situation is to be carried from Chicago, Ill., by WJZ-NBC at 9:30.

QUEEN MARY LOADED DESPITE WAR SCARE

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The current European war scare apparently had little effect on the nerves of passengers booked for the Cunard White Star liner Queen Mary.

The ship sailed this afternoon with 888 passengers, 93 more than the number who sailed on August 23, 1938, and the line said that although about 30 reservations had been cancelled in the last four days the number was not unusual.

Among those who cancelled their reservations were Oscar Homolka, Austrian actor, and his bride, the former Florence Meyer, daughter of Eugene Meyer, publisher of the Washington Post.

Among those sailing were Maureen O'Sullivan, film star, and her sister, Sheila; and Colonel Hubert Fauntleroy Julian, the "black eagle" of Harlem and one-time aviation corps (one plane) of Ethiopia. The colonel said he was going abroad as a war correspondent for the Amsterdam News of Harlem. If there isn't a war, he added, he's going to Monte Carlo.

SHIP CONDITIONS REPORTED NORMAL

The Atlanta office of the Cunard Line reported the conditions on their ships shown in the Paris dispatch are about normal because of the heavy westward bookings at this time of the year.

Fernand Courtris, general agent in Atlanta for the French line, said he is not disturbed that any present war talk about Europe is having effect upon travel conditions abroad. He plans to leave with his family for a European trip on August 30.

"Some excitement has been expressed over the full sailing schedules of steamship companies out of Europe," he said last night, "but that is the usual situation this time of year. Tourists now in Europe are more anxious to return for the opening of school terms than they are to flee a possible war."

Mr. Courtris said he saw no indication of panic in the crowded trains leaving middle Europe and steamships sailing for the Americas. "The order of English and American consuls asking their citizens to leave Germany and Poland is a precautionary measure taken whenever a war seems threatened."

"I have a strong conviction," he said, "that the statesmen and the people, in particular, of France and Germany do not want to fight. Therefore I don't believe any leader will wantonly throw his country into a war."

It's tough work being a pessimist. First off, you've got to be thoroughly disappointed in yourself.

BRITAIN IS RUSHING WAR PREPARATIONS

to give serious thought before risking war.

Official circles received reports of the Hitler-Sir Neville talk in silence but diplomats took the gravest possible view.

Parliament To Meet.

Parliament will meet in special session tomorrow to vote the government virtually dictatorial powers to deal with any emergency.

All officers and key men in anti-aircraft batteries of the territorial army were called up along with an undetermined number of reservists in the army, navy and air force.

The home office ordered air raid precaution forces to be ready, beginning tonight, for a nation-wide blackout at a moment's notice.

All ARP telephones were ordered manned day and night to notify householders.

Britons were warned to keep their gas masks ready.

Fleet Sent Reinforcements.

An admiralty official said reinforcements were being sent to the Mediterranean fleet to bring it up to full strength.

Tyneside shipowning firms also cancelled all sailings to Baltic and German ports until the international situation is clarified. One vessel en route to Hamburg was called back by radio.

The Board of Trade issued an order prohibiting export of essential war materials from Britain except by license.

King George VI interrupted his vacation in Scotland to return to London.

Activity at the foreign office and at 10 Downing Street, the prime minister's residence, was greater than at any time since the Czechoslovak crisis last September.

Crowds Watch Diplomats.

Crowds stood in Downing Street throughout the day, watching diplomats and cabinet ministers enter and leave.

The imperial defense council met in the cabinet room to consider preparedness steps.

Prime Minister Chamberlain consulted with Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare, Lord Chatfield, minister for the co-ordination of defenses, and other key ministers.

Among the diplomatic callers was United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, who talked with both Chamberlain and Halifax. He was cheered by the crowds as he left the foreign office.

Lord Kemsley, newspaper publisher who recently visited Hitler, also saw the prime minister.

Halifax, Polish Envoy Talk.

Halifax had a talk with Count Edward Raczyński, Polish ambassador, and discussed the latest developments. Both Poland and France were informed in advance of the message sent to Hitler by the government.

Both Chamberlain and Halifax will make statements on the international situation in parliament tomorrow.

Halifax to Broadcast.

The foreign secretary will broadcast Britain's case to the world tomorrow night from 10 Downing Street where Chamberlain made his dramatic statement two days before the Munich conference last September.

(Officials of Radio Station WSB announced last night that the program would probably be heard here between 3:30 p. m. and 3:40 p. m., Atlanta time.)

The Institute of London Underwriters issued a new schedule of drastically increased minimum war risk rates which apply to all vessels sailing on or after tomorrow.

Rates of Mediterranean and Baltic cruises were more than trebled.

German and Italian vessels, however, were an exception, and may be changed at the underwriters' discretion.

TACTICS OF ALLIES GIVE POLAND HOPE

WARSAW, Aug. 23.—(AP)—A belief that the western powers friendly to Poland were embarking upon "aggressive" diplomatic tactics to maintain peace inspired a glimmer of hope in Polish circles tonight that the European crisis might be diminished.

There was, however, a general recognition of the critical state of affairs and a feeling, noted also in other capitals, that the issue of peace or war might be decided within a very few days.

Great interest centered upon the news that Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Germany, had seen Adolf Hitler at Berchtesgaden.

The Polish Telegraph Agency reported a brief frontier clash between Polish and German soldiers at Vlučnow, a small village opposite Breslau.

According to the agency, three German soldiers crossed the Polish frontier in pursuit of deserters to be challenged by Polish soldiers at a windmill, 150 yards from the border. The Germans, it was claimed, opened fire, which was returned.

Soviet Russia is trying the experiment of giving medical students a five-year course, of which the first three years are the same for all, and in the last two the student chooses between general medicine, public health, or diseases of children.

FRENCH AND BRITISH CONFER WITH CIANO

Envoys Advise Italy of Nations' Intentions If War Comes; Exchange Views.

ROME, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The French ambassador and the Italian foreign minister were reported to have advised each other what their respective nations would do if Adolf Hitler marched into Danzig.

Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet, whose nation is pledged with Britain to aid Poland, talked with Count Ciano for 35 minutes.

Diplomatic quarters said the interchange of attitudes was of great importance in the light of the gravening European situation.

(Paris sources said the French cabinet had instructed her ambassadors to advise interested European governments that France stood by her Polish commitments to fight if Poland resists an aggressive action.)

Sir Percy Loraine, the British ambassador, called upon Count Ciano earlier in the day.

Ciano was reported to have told Francois-Poncet in effect that Italy would stand solidly with her axis partner, Germany, in peace or war.

Informed quarters tended to believe that the meeting had drawn lines tighter and were more apprehensive of the peril of events of the next few days leading to a European war.

It was evident from Fascist newspapers that Rome as well as Berlin hoped to get more out of the brewing crisis than the return of Danzig to Germany.

The press declared frankly that it would be necessary also to restore Germany's war-lost colonies, and satisfy Italian claims on France for privileges in Tunisia, the Suez canal and Jibuti.

RIVERS IS WILLING TO DELAY ACTION ON TAX REVISION

Ready To Go Along With Temporary Expedient, He Tells Editors Opening Calhoun Conclave.

By HERMAN HANCOCK, Staff Correspondent.
CALHOUN, Ga., Aug. 23.—Governor Rivers tonight laid squarely in the laps of a balking Georgia legislature the responsibility for financing the state program on a sound basis, and then tempered his remarks by asserting he will "go along on a temporary expedient if necessary and fight out the main issue (tax revision) later."

Speaking at the opening meeting of the 53d annual convention of the Georgia Press Association meeting here, the Governor said ultimately a sound tax revision will become mandatory because expedients "will not solve the problem."

Special Session Question.
Asked specifically if any early special session of the general assembly is in prospect, the Governor replied that will depend on the answers he receives to his latest query of the membership.
"Georgia has embarked upon its program," he told the editors, "The people said they wanted it. We have taken every step in a general revision and expansion of services to the people save one—the revision of taxes to pay the costs."

"Whether we accomplish that at the moment depends on the leg-

State Board of Education Pledges Financial Support to Schools of Georgia

Shown as they pledged financial support of the common schools for the first four months of the new term are the members of the State Board of Education. It is the first photograph taken of the board as at present constituted. Seated, left to right,

of Atlanta; Dr. R. J. Kennedy, of Statesboro; W. C. Clary, of Harlem; Lawson L. Patten, of Lakeland; Mrs. A. B. Conger, of Bainbridge, and State Superintendent M. D. Collins. The session dealt with pressing phases of the school problem.

islature. Whether new taxes are voted or a redistribution of present funds is made, depends on the legislature.

Temporary Expedient.
"The people ultimately want the program put on a sound basis. Maybe a temporary redistribution is expedient."

"Any temporary arrangement, however, might leave the counties out of the picture, and we have cut tax payments in the state $6,500,000 a year, more than any other 10 administrations in the state's history. The counties have borne a vast portion of the exemptions, and any plan which fails to replace revenues lost to the counties might be construed as an effort to force county consolidation."

"I am opposed to consolidation, and have said so on every stump in Georgia. The legislature ought not be a party to any action which might force consolidation."

Although the Rivers address was regarded as the opening gun of the convention, the board of managers this afternoon launched a united fight to back Albert S. Hardy Sr., editor of the Gainesville News, and former president of the Georgia Press Association, for the presidency of the National Editorial Association.

Hardy has been a member of the executive board of the national body for many years, and is one of the best known publishers in Georgia. He also is a member of the board of managers of the Georgia association.

Hotel rooms buzzed tonight about candidacies for vice president of the Georgia association to succeed J. Roy McGinty, editor of the Calhoun Times and host to the convention.

McGinty is slated to be elevated to the presidency, succeeding Jere N. Moore.

Mentioned for Post.
The names of Otis Brumby, editor of the Marietta Times; Rush Burton, editor of the Lavonia Times; and Dave (Uncle Dave) B. Turner, editor of the Statesboro Times, were among those most prominently mentioned.

The editors will begin a series of sessions tomorrow at which job printing, circulation, advertising, typography and pictures will share the spotlight.

STATE TO FINANCE 4 MONTHS' SCHOOL

The seven-month school term law provides that the state, through the Board of Education, shall finance the schools for seven months but the board can go no farther than its funds allow. At its meeting yesterday it had a report from State Auditor Zack Arnold showing that anticipated funds would cover only four of the seven months. The board chose to make those four the first four months and to start the payments in September instead of October in order to permit counties and local school districts to catch up on what they went in arrears last spring before January 1.

The Arnold estimate furnished to the board is understood to have taken into consideration the schools' share of the income tax yield which will not be available until spring. The auditor did not go into this detail but observers pointed out that the funds in sight to pay for the four-month program would have to come from the general property tax, due in December and the income tax due in April.

The resolution adopted by the board follows:
"Pursuant to the statement of the state auditor that funds will be available with which to operate the schools four months for the school year 1939-1940 by the state, the state board set the beginning of the payment for these four months—October 1, 1939."

"However, upon petition and showing made by the representatives of the educational groups of the state, including the board of directors of the Georgia Education Association, and the executive board of the department of superintendents and board members of the Georgia Education Association, the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers and the County School Superintendents' Association, we herewith change the beginning of the four-month period for the payment of teachers by the state from October 1, 1939, to September 1, 1939, so that the state guarantees the payment of teachers' salaries for September, October, November and December, 1939."

The board acted after discarding a resolution presented by Ralph L. Ramsey and others representing the schools. The Ramsey resolution called on the Governor to exercise his borrowing power immediately.

Urge Move's Defeat.

Speaker Roy V. Harris, of the house of representatives, and Chairman Wilmer D. Lanier, of the house economy committee, advocates of highway fund diversion, urged the board to defeat the resolution. Lanier said he spoke as a citizen. Both said that the borrowing of funds would only delay the day of reckoning on the school program.

Two other members of the house made known that they opposed the diversion plan. These were Representative William H. Key, of Jasper county, chairman of the house appropriations committee, and Representative Charlie Claxton, of Johnson county.

Senate President John B. Spivey and Senator Adie W. Durden, of Albany, senate floor leader, told the board that they would support any financing program agreed upon by the majority.

PROBE IS SOUGHT OF BURCH DISMISSAL

EASTMAN, Ga., Aug. 23.—(AP) An effort to secure a probe of the "unwarranted dismissal" of R. F. Burch as state commissioner of natural resources was added today to the matters likely to confront a special session of the legislature if one is called.

Legislators from Burch's home county, Dodge, issued a statement they would seek such an investigation. Signed by Representatives C. E. Yawn and Lamar Wiggins, and Senator James McCranie, the statement said Burch was "purported to have resigned" but he denied this was true.

When testimony before the economy investigating committee disclosed friction between Burch and Wild Life Director Joe D. Mitchell, Governor Rivers announced several months ago the commissioner voluntarily had given up his post. Mitchell's resignation was announced. Later he became assistant wild life director in charge of coastal areas.

Mitchell was succeeded by Charles N. Elliott, former director of the parks division. Burch's position was not filled.

FATALITY IS RULED DUE TO ACCIDENT

Decision Ends Atlanta's Record Number of 'Deathless Days.'

The death of Lawton G. Hall, following a collision between the automobile he was driving and a streetcar at Marietta and Wallace streets August 15, definitely ends Atlanta's longest period of consecutive days without a traffic fatality, according to a decision made yesterday by Captain Jack Malcom.

Traffic officials decided, at the same time, not to ask the National Safety Council for a ruling on whether or not Hall's death should be attributed to traffic. Dr. J. Moss Beeler, superintendent of Grady hospital, attested for officials that the boy died primarily of tetanus and that the broken arm was a secondary cause.

However, Captain Malcom said yesterday, "It's just one of those unfortunate things. Normally a broken arm does not bring on a fatality, but in this case the boy would not have died had it not been for an automobile accident."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

SQUALUS CLEARED OF SALVAGE GEAR

Navy Hopes To Float Her by Own Buoyancy Within Two Weeks.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The decks of the submarine Squalus were clear of salvage gear tonight for the first time in three months, as navy divers progressed rapidly toward surfacing the sunken vessel—perhaps within another fortnight.

Hose and lines were stripped from the craft's deck, four hull valves were closed, and an after hatch that mysteriously became open seven days ago was bolted down during today's operations.

It remained for the salvagers to attach new hose lines, to check the air-tightness of the submersible's partly flooded compartments and to replace the water with air before the third lift and final tow.
The plan was to raise her to the surface by her own buoyancy.

Prominent 'Atlantans View Fair From Decks of Palatial Yacht

By Sally Forth.

AMONG yachts anchored on Long Island coast is the Sunset, the palatial sea-going vessel belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Stephen A. Lynch, former Atlantans.

The Sunset, which incidentally derives its name from the island off the Florida coast owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lynch, is docked in the yacht basin on Long Island, which makes its presence in eastern waters doubly exciting due to the proximity of the World's Fair and its attendant attractions.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynch have as their present guests their brothers and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. William Satterthwaite and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Orme, of Atlanta.

The Atlanta group has been aboard the Sunset for some time and during their absence from the city their sister, Mrs. Harry Anderson, the former Ruth Dodd, is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Dodd, at their West Peachtree street residence.

Among other guests who have enjoyed visits on the Sunset during the summer were Mrs. Lynch's son, Forrest Adair III, and his friend, Walter Logan, of Chattanooga, the two young college youths having spent part of their summer vacation in the east.

ALL INDICATIONS point toward a brilliant winter social season in Atlanta, with each day bringing forth the announcement of another prospective member of the 1939-40 Debutante Club. Elizabeth Groves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Groves, is the most recent belle to decide in favor of making her formal bow to society. Elizabeth had some difficulty in making up her mind whether "to be, or not to be," but Sally hears that her friends, Mrs. McGaughey, Jane Osburn, Bobo Spalding and Anne Pappenheimer, possess excellent powers of persuasion. The trio, you know, has already decided to join debutante ranks for the forthcoming winter.

Always a popular belle, Elizabeth attended North Fulton High school, where she was a member of the Phi Pi sorority. Last year she was among Atlanta sub-debs enrolling at the University of Georgia, where she belonged to the Phi Mu sorority.

Although plans are only in the initial stage for the belle's debut party, Sally hears that the affair will take place early in the season, the date to be announced later.

SALLY FORTH is indebted to "The Prattle" of The Look-out, Chattanooga, Tenn., for the following clever story, with the hope that it may solve the problem for Atlanta couples who feel the urge to travel, but are worried about the welfare of "Junior" during their absence. Of course it's a little hard on the telephone company, but you may be able to get away with it:

"A young couple from a northern city wanted to take a trip to Florida but they were a little worried about leaving the baby, whom they had never before left alone with the nurse. If they telephoned every night, their bill would be tremendous.

"They finally solved their difficulties in this way. Every night the man would put in a person-to-person call to himself. If all was well, the nurse would say that he wasn't at home. If the nurse wished to speak to them about the child, she would reply to the operator that Mr. So-and-so wasn't at home but that she would speak for him. They enjoyed a delightful trip and had only to pay a very small report charge to assure themselves of the child's well-being."

GUESS WHO? She is an attractive graduate of the University of Georgia, having received her diploma from that institution in June. A member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority, she served as a member of the student government association. Adorning her "fourth finger" is a sparkling engagement ring, which she received last Easter. He is a native of Virginia, and graduated from the University of North Carolina, where he belonged to Sigma Kappa fraternity. The betrothal will be announced early in September, and will enlist wide interest.

Many Events Given At Woman's Club

Mrs. Grady Eubanks, third vice president of the Atlanta Woman's Club, is serving as hostess for Friday club day, which is proving a popular feature at the club. She will continue as hostess for August and throughout September.

A representative group assembled last Friday with new members as the specially invited guests. The clubhouse was decorated with summer garden flowers, and punch was served in the palm room from a silver bowl, a gift to the club. Mrs. Calvin Shelverton, club president, received.

Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs, chairman of entertainment, presented the outstanding slide trombone team "Keelin and Miller," of New York in a musical program. The bridge section, Mrs. Conway Hunter, chairman, met Wednesday for luncheon.

The club has automobile convention this week. A motion picture, of the new features of the automobiles, were shown in the theater, followed by the unveiling of a car on the stage. New models were on display on the lawn.

Mesdames Charles R. Hartsfield, Walter A. Sims, and W. T. Banning are in charge of decorations for the convention day. Mesdames Peyre Gaillard, A. P. Treadwell, and Mary Griffith Dobbs are in charge of special arrangements, and an orchestra will furnish music.

Only Guarantee for Safe Marriage Is Good Character of Mate

Girl Afraid To Wed Boy With So Many Faults

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: My fiancée is a reasonably safe and happy marriage is the honesty and integrity of the mate, of which a man has none to speak of when he tells lies to his best girl.

One other little point worth noting: If a girl will watch a man with his money and keep watching him she can read him through and through. If she will see what he does with it, see what he has left when he's through spending, and where he puts that, she's got him diagnosed. It's only plain arithmetic, but strange to say, marriage and arithmetic are so inextricably mixed that you can't separate them.

All of which reminds me of something I heard a fond father say recently: "I've given my two daughters fine educations, I've sent them traveling to see the world, and now the only thing I ask is that they use their heads to pick their husbands. I'm not keen for them to be too much in love when they do it, either. When young folks are afflicted with that disease they run such a fever they become delirious. I'd much rather my children pick out their husbands for points and fall in love with them afterward."

Perhaps papa is a little on the cold-blooded side, but you've got to admit that when a girl goes for a great big beautiful man and feels a thrill of pride in every time she appears with him in public, she's rarely capable of seeing through the glamour to the man beneath it.

With a college diploma in your desk drawer, you should have something in your noggin. Read the slogan on the containers of a famous drug concern: "The priceless ingredient of any product is the honesty and integrity of its maker," and let that run around in your head. Remember that the only guarantee a girl can get for

New Cookbook, American in Every Way, Solves No-Vegetable Variety Problem

By SALLY SAVER.

At times I have been inclined to think that cooking is the only art which is attempted without training, study or experience. And I have heard so-called intelligent persons remark, "Aw, anybody can cook."

Truly I think it is this attitude which considers cooking relatively unimportant that is responsible for much of the bad food set before us. Anybody can stir up some foods considered edible and put them on the stove. But no person without practical experience in the trial and error method hours spent observing a good cook, reading, a knack for putting foods together, or a combination of all these things can produce really good food. One of the delightful asides in Richard Byrd's book, "Alone," deals with his first efforts at cooking. Although he had made many geographical discoveries previously he had not, until he was "alone."

A good cookbook or two should be on every kitchen or library shelf. A modern housewife, Mrs. Jack Morris, 149 Peachtree circle, consults the new volume on vegetable cookery before deciding how the dinner vegetables will be prepared.

Armed with authoritative advice and tested recipes, the housewife of today can quite easily eliminate guesswork, with its costly errors, from her kitchen. Also she can get stimulating variety into her meals.

Cookbook," this one is called, gives more than 400 recipes for cooking vegetables.

One comforting thing about this book is, it is written by regular American folks, and therefore deals with American, as well as other vegetables, in a thoroughly American way. It is practical, and, while it does introduce some new and little-used vegetables, it does not deal extensively with any that are unobtainable or hard to get.

The little sidelights which it gives are interesting; okra, the authors say, is not only tropical but African in origin; the negro slaves brought the seeds from their native land, and taught the white colonists to grow and eat this peculiar vegetable.

This attractive and unusual cookbook was written by a family, the Browns, who grow vegetables in their small backyard garden in New York state. I like their cosmopolitan charm, which shines through their little volume, and I like their sympathetic attitude toward southern cookery.

Home Decorated For the Man's Comfort

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

They're a masculine family—consisting of three sons nearly grown, a burly father and a bronzed and sturdy grandfather with why? genial wit. What chance has the lady of the house against that masculine array? Especially since they're all avid hunters and fishermen. She accepts the inevitable very good-naturedly and has made the household especially masculine in a cheery comfortable sort of way.

Like a Convention. Originally the living room and dining room were separated by a partition, but she had that knocked out not many months back and threw the two rooms together in order to give a spacious effect—in a small room that many men somehow or other managed to look like a convention. In the big common room that resulted from the alteration, the walls have been tinted a pale green and a slightly deeper rug of textured design in two tones of green covers the floor all the way to the baseboard—that also makes the room seem bigger. Across one end of the room, there is a large, long, trestle-type table, with comfortable Windsor chairs drawn up to it all the time—between meals this makes a fine place for studying lessons, reading the paper or spreading out most any type of work a person might have at hand. On either side of the fireplace and drawn up at right angles to it are a pair of sofas—that's so more than one can stretch out at the same time. These sofas are covered in a figured linen on a light-green ground so that they seem to merge into the floor covering and walls and not to take up as much room as they actually do. The rest of the furniture in the room is maple in a pleasant honey finish. Accessories are nearly all in pewter and include some large lamps and a collection of old pewter plates, some of them arranged informally on the mantel shelf.

The other upholstered pieces are covered in brown to henna tones and the lamp shades are all in natural parchment. Ecru sheer curtains with over-drapes of a textural cotton material about the same tone as the walls give finish to the windows without breaking up the wall spaces too much.

Star Called From Sick Bed To Make Last "G.W.T.W." Scene

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23.—Franchot Tone earns more in one week at Metro than for the entire 20 weeks he worked on Broadway in "The Gentle People," for which he was paid $200 a week—chicken feed in movie financial circles. But Franchot still prefers the stage. The Sylvia Sidney infant is expected any day now. Annie is apparently out to prove Proust make an incongruous pair. Anne is apparently out to prove that a glamor girl can have a brain, too. . . . Another strangely assorted pair—Freddie Bartholomew and Charles Coburn discussing life and careers at the Brown Derby. Coburn tells Freddie that he can work in the Coburn summer theater—"whenever you want to." Coburn tells me that he considers Freddie a natural comedian—which is news to this department.

Olivia De Havilland is called from a sick bed plus a temperature of 101 to make the last scene in "Gone With the Wind." She has to emote on a treadmill with a strong studio-manufactured breeze—which does not help her "flu." . . . Clark Gable insists that his two new tractor can do everything around the farm—except cook. . . . Mary Beth Hughes, pretty Metro newcomer, tells me her current ambition is to have $50,000—my option taken up, and a nice young producer to marry. Don't we all?

See if you can make head or tail out of this: A couple of mornings ago, Norma Shearer's studio informed the press that Norma would, after a brief return here,

No Good Trumps My Day: Some Good Reading In Next Few Days

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK.—I have had so many interesting books sent me in the last few days that I would like to sit down and read without stopping. Some of them are really take only a few minutes to appreciate. Among these is a book called "The Songs of San Francisco," which I think anyone going to the exposition there will enjoy having as a reminder of the trip.

Then there is George Palmer Putnam's "Soaring Wings," the greater part of which I imagine I read in the articles which came out in a magazine. There may be more in the book, however, and I am glad in any case to have it in permanent form, for this is the record of a friend one can never forget in a book to be treasured in one's library.

Then there are three new plays which I shall read through tonight, sent me by the Dramatists Play Service, Inc., which is publishing for young people a series of plays dealing with freedom and democracy. I will tell you more about them when I have read them.

There is a pamphlet which describes the Nova Scotia co-operatives and which is published by the Co-operative League of the U. S. S. These co-operatives are modeled on the Swedish ones and there is much real helpful information in the pamphlet. In the people's library, a regional library containing 1,200 books, which distributes to smaller libraries, co-operative stores and credit unions in the area adjacent to Aberdeen, California and Reserve mines, there hangs a motto which seems to me worthy of remembrance:

"There are four sorts of men:
"He who knows not, and knows not that he knows not, is a fool—shun him.
"He who knows not and knows that he knows not, is a child—teach him.
"He who knows and knows not that he knows, is asleep—wake him.
"He who knows and knows that he knows, is wise—follow him."

Then there is a study conducted in Rockland county, New York, on "Government at Work," which shows the relationship between every governmental agency of the county to the lives of the people and is a real contribution to the understanding of democracy. In addition to all these, several interesting books have come in, but I am still reading a novel called "Rebecca," by Daphne Du Maurier, which I find quite charming, so I cannot yet tell you about other books, but I think you will agree with me that I can find plenty to read during the next few days.

We expected some guests from Maine last night, but they had motor trouble and difficulty finding the way, so they telephoned in utter discouragement about 8:30 p. m. that they would spend the night where they were and will not reach us until noon today.

The weather has been fairly warm here, as elsewhere during the last few days, and I am glad for the sake of my guests, who seem to be coming from all directions just now, that this morning is cooler.

Slightest Gain Goes to Hips But Diet Won't Take It Off

By Ida Jean Kain.

Whenever you overeat consistently, you can count on gaining in the hips. And when you go on a diet, you might expect the excess to come off this measurement—but that's not the way it works.

To streamline the hips, it is necessary to adopt an exercise program that will wear down the fat in this area. Since the hips may bow out at the sides in pincushion pads, assume a desk chair spread, or take on a pronounced bustle effect, the program must be fairly comprehensive.

One of the best exercises for the entire hip line rocks off the bulges. Here it is:

Assume a half-sitting position on the floor, with the weight partially supported on the forearms. The elbows, forearms and palms of hands should be on the floor. Now, bend the knees and raise the feet slightly off the floor up near the buttocks. Keep the legs together and in this same flexed position throughout the exercise.

All set? Give yourself a vigorous shove with the right hand and rock over on the outer side of the right hip and thigh. As you do so, swing the right hand over to the left side, in front of the chest, to serve as a brake. Then shove with the left hand and rock over on the right hip and thigh, bringing the right forearm down to partially support the weight, and swinging the left hand over in front of the chest to act as a brake.

All you do is rock from side to side, but you hit every one of those stubborn pads along the hip line! Begin with 20 rocks and very gradually work up to 75, then to 100. This one exercise can almost be counted on to take some of the hip problems, but if you did not change occasionally, it would tend to lose its effectiveness. Besides, you probably need one good exercise for the gluteus maximus muscles on the back of the hips.

Lie face downward on the floor, stretched to full length, arms up on the floor overhead, and the legs straight down. Without bending the knees, very slowly raise the left leg high in the air, tensing all the muscles. Hold for a second, and slowly and deliberately lower to

Real Style Leader for Little Girls

By Lillian Moe.

Here comes a real, little style leader! Lillian Moe's versatile Pattern 4245 will make several school and party costumes for a lucky girl. First, buy some splashy, peasant print cotton or spun rayon fabric for the darling jumper, with a low-cut, laced neckline and frilled, slanted pockets. Use fresh white cotton for the blouse, with either ruffled, puffed sleeves and crisp frills at its neck, or a neat collar and long sleeves. Now with the same pattern, sew a dainty one-piece dress with a button-trimmed jacket in vivid contrast. The jacket's low neckline will show the big, floppy bow on the dress. So dashing for school or romping!

Pattern 4245 is available in children's sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12. Size 6, jumper, takes 1-2 yards 35-inch fabric, blouse, 3-4 yard 35-inch contrast; entire ensemble, 2 yards 35-inch fabric and 7-8 yard contrast.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Lillian Moe pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number. "Are you a 'problem child' as far as your figure is concerned? If you are irregularly proportioned let Lillian Moe's per-fit foundation Pattern 4114 take the guesswork out of dressmaking. It's a 'basic figure' pattern that is first fitted and adjusted to your exact measurements in tissue, then cut out in muslin for a permanent record. It costs just fifteen cents.

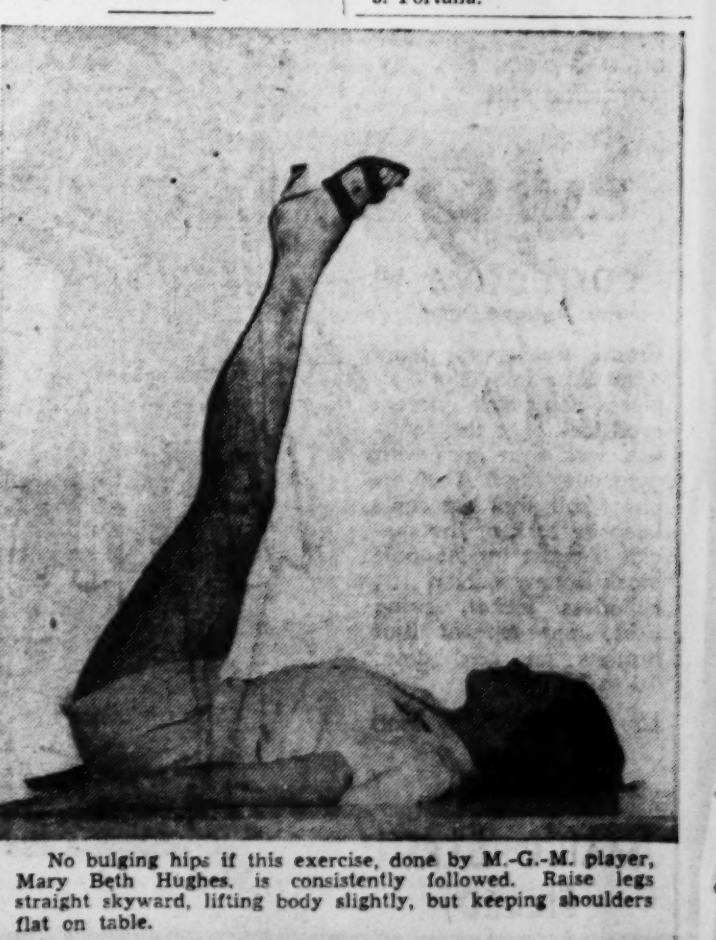

Send your order to Lillian Moe Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

TODAY'S CHARM TIP.

Haven't you, too, noticed how opinionated and final seems that voice that is dropped at the end of a sentence and how much more charming is the habit of keeping the voice up, leaving it for the other to contribute something.

Send 15 cents in coins for our songbook, WESTERN HEART THROBS, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of book.

"Bunny" thought she spied her spouse sitting in a chair watching the stars of the picture, Isa Miranda and George Brent, enact a love scene. She lip-toed over to the portly gentleman, gently kissed him on the back of his neck. She looked up and saw Mr. Bruce watching her in mock disapproval. Mrs. Bruce had mistaken Nigel's stand-in, Captain George L. Hill, for her husband.

No bulging hips if this exercise, done by M.-G.-M. player, Mary Beth Hughes, is consistently followed. Raise legs straight skyward, lifting body slightly, but keeping shoulders flat on table.

JURY QUESTIONS CAPITOL OFFICIALS IN PAROLE PROBE

Foreman Law Says Some Lawyers Can Get Pardons While Others
Equally Able Cannot.

The political aspect of pardons and paroles granted Fulton county convicts by the State Prison and Parole Commission brought Clem Rainey, chairman of the commission; Downing Musgrove, executive secretary to Governor Rivers; Pat Avery, lawyer, and messenger of the house of representatives, and others before a secret grand jury committee today.

The secret committee devoted the day to the prison and parole situation, while the committee investigating the county sewer system prepared another subpoena duces tecum for specific pay roll and time sheet records of sewer projects.

Continue Today.
Both investigations will be continued today at a special meeting of the entire grand jury, Foreman Thomas C. Law said. The session begins at 10 o'clock this morning, with a number of unnamed witnesses summoned to testify.

The grand jury was balked in its effort to subpoena the records of the prison and parole commission yesterday by a ruling from Attorney General Ellis Arnall that the records could not be taken from the state house.

"Never mind," commented Law later in the day. "We have obtained all the information we want by sending over to the capitol for it." He added that "the grand jury has the figures."

Som- Can, Some Can't.
"It is a conceded fact that some lawyers can get parole and pardons for their clients while other lawyers, just as able, can not," Law asserted when he was asked by a reporter whether any evidence had been turned up to indicate that politics had a bearing on the issuance of pardons and paroles.

It was understood that the jurymen questioned Musgrove, Rainey and others along this line. Some of the witnesses questioned yesterday by the committee included Emmett Williams, secretary to the prison and parole commission; State Senator Paul L. Lindsay, of DeKalb county; Frank Simpson, solicitor general of the Winder circuit; J. A. Ragsdale, chairman of the public works committee of the county commission, and Gloer Hailey, chairman of the alms and juvenile committee of the commission.

Turn to Reformatory.
Law said the latter two were asked about conditions at the boys' reformatory and he indicated that the grand jury will make recommendations looking toward further steps to make the reformatory a vocational school rather than a prison for youthful offenders.

Foreman Law indicated that the grand jury will bring out a special resolution concerning paroles and pardons either today or tomorrow.

The sewer committee prepared its supplementary subpoena duces tecum yesterday to obtain the specific information on the pay roll of at least one large sewer project. The time sheets were specifically requested.

FLORIDIAN LEASES COLONIAL TERRACE

Will Pay $165,000 Rental for 10-Year Period.

The Colonial Terrace hotel, at 2140 Peachtree road, has been leased to Morton Bright, of Daytona Beach, Fla., for a 10-year period, W. J. Folsom, the owner, announced yesterday.

Bright will take over operation September 1, Folsom said. Rental for the period will be $165,000 or a little more than $16,000 per year. Welborn B. Cody, Atlanta attorney, represented Folsom, while C. S. Thompson, of the Southern Business Brokers, represented Bright.

Recently remodeled and air-conditioned with an addition of 23 rooms, the four-story hotel now has a total of 78 rooms.

HOT WEATHER BILIOUSNESS

Have you noticed that in hot weather your digestion and elimination seem to become torpid or lazy? Your food sours, orms gas, causes belching, heartburn, and a feeling of restlessness and irritability. Your tongue may be coated, your complexion sallow, and your bowel action sluggish or insufficient.

Fletcher Promises Enforcement of Wage - Hour Law

Speaking here yesterday, Major Arthur Fletcher, wage-hour enforcement chief, told the Southern Garment Manufacturers' Association that with a greatly enlarged staff his organization was out to get any and all violators of the act. Shown with him are four of his "hardboiled diplomats," now in Washington. These young women who will be sent into different parts of the country are, left to right, Margaret Stabler, Richmond, Va.; Marie Duke, Cleveland; Alice Rush, Philadelphia, and Estelle Wolf, Washington.

Southern Wage Law Violators Warned by Fletcher, U. S. Official

Mill Group Told 'Sweatshop' Conditions Not Fault of Local Owners But Are Inspired by Operators in North.

The south was absolved of sweatshop charges yesterday by Major Arthur L. Fletcher, enforcement chief of the wage-hour division of the Department of Labor.

At the same time Fletcher told southern manufacturers that the wage-hour law is going to be rigidly enforced as soon as newly trained inspectors can be put into the field. Atlanta will be headquarters for an inspection force.

Major Fletcher told the Southern Garment Manufacturers' Association of Textile Mills and Piece Goods Houses that statistics showed living cost differentials between northern and southern cities are not as great as wage differentials.

In response to a question at a meeting yesterday with manufacturers, Major Fletcher said: "Generally speaking, violations of the wage-hour act do not come from the south. Such violations as do occur in the section usually come from plants of eastern and northern concern; fly-by-night, hit-and-run propositions, attracted to the south by Chamber of Commerce promises of cheap labor, tax exemptions, and no restrictions."

Representing Small Mill.
The question was put by Gordon McKelvey, counsel for the manufacturers' association and representative of small southern mill owners who opposed the proposed minimum textile wage hike at a hearing here last July before Wage-Hour Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews.

"Doubting Thomases."
"I have said this before," the beaming chief of enforcement stated, "and I say it again before this audience, which I presume, contains the customary number of Doubting Thomases. I say it as one who knows the south, as one who knows southern industry, and as one who knows the consequences that flow into the lives of the people from the decisions industry makes. And for the benefit of those who believe the economic destiny of the south is inevitably tied to low wages; that there is no other way to attract capital and develop resources, I want to point out that the ephemeral benefits low wages can confer, low wages also can snatch away."

By way of illustration, he observed that low wages had siphoned the textile industry from New England to the southeast, and that lower wages across the Mississippi had begun to pull southeastern industry westward.

"If low wages are to be our weapons, our stock in trade, aren't there other sections able to furnish even cheaper labor and beat us at our own game," he asked.

Major Fletcher cited results of a recent Bureau of Labor Statistics survey which showed the average living costs in five southern cities was only three per cent lower than in five northern cities of comparable size, while wage differentials were greater. He asserted that talk about mild southern climate no longer is being used as a valid argument for lower wages, "but as rationalization, and an opiate with which to dull our social conscience."

Good Wages Paid.
"Now I don't want to be accused of being unjust," he continued. "I know that most of you here are paying good wages. I know that manufacturing is a highly competitive business and I don't think anybody can be blamed for trying to stay out of bankruptcy by refusing to go hog wild on wages if the fellow in the next county is going to stick to a starvation scale."

"That's the point in the argument where the Fair Labor Standards Act steps in. The law says that you've got to pay a living wage. But it guarantees that while you are doing so, the other fellow is going to have to do the same thing. Your competitor is not going to be allowed to stab you in the back."

"That's what the law says, but of course laws aren't worth much until they are enforced. And I am here to tell you that we are going to enforce this one. You have a right to enforcement, and we are going to give it to you."

"During the first eight months, we had only 114 inspectors. During this fiscal year we expect to

L.S.J. FILES SUIT FOR LOST MONEY

Attach Home With Gold-Plated Plumbing and Air-Conditioned Bar.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 23.—(AP) Louisiana State University today began court action to recover money lost during the tenure of former President James Monroe Smith.

The university officials filed suit for $143,043.02 against George Caldwell, former construction superintendent, and attached his elaborate home with the gold-plated plumbing fixtures and air-conditioned bar, his well-equipped near-by camp where he entertained the New York Giants last year, and his bank accounts.

Caldwell, already under indictment, has been dismissed by the university where he allegedly received a two per cent commission on building construction.

The university sued Caldwell for $57,769.82 paid under this arrangement, $58,010 received alleged as "gifts" from contractors and dealers and $27,263.20 salary paid him by the school from 1933 until his dismissal June 30 after the university scandal broke.

Here's a Good Trick If You Can Do It; Costs Grocer $5

This apparently is a good trick if you know how to do it. Two fast-talking quick-change artists apparently "knew how" yesterday afternoon.

They walked into a grocery store at 330 Ormond street, went into a huddle with J. W. Thrasher, a clerk, and this, Thrasher told police, is what happened:

Quick Change Artist No. 1 bought a can of salmon priced at 25 cents and tendered a $10 bill in payment. For change he received a $5 bill, four $1 bills and 77 cents in silver.

Quick Change Artist No. 2 bought a pack of cigarettes, tendered a $5 bill in payment and received $4.85 in change. He then paid five cents for a can of dog food and, for no good reason, gave Q. C. A. No. 1 a $1 bill.

Q. C. A. No. 1 next gave Thrasher four $1 bills and a $5 bill, explaining that he wanted one $5 bill for the change. Rather than take advantage of his customer's "mistake" Thrasher kindly explained to the proffered bills totaled not $5 but $9.

Q. C. A. No. 1 accordingly gave Thrasher a $1 bill for the $2 bill to get the transaction straightened out after which Thrasher presented him with a $5 bill for the five $1 bills.

As a final request, Q. C. A. No. 1 presented Thrasher with the same $5 bill and asked that his $10 bill be returned.

Thrasher complied.

Later when he tried to balance his accounts he figured it out. He was $5 short.

But the Q. C. A. had gone.

JURY DENOUNCES ANENBERG NEWS NEUTRALITY ASKED IN AFL-CIO STRIFE

Urges U. S. State Laws To Smash Turf Network as Gambling Aid.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—(AP)—A special federal grand jury urged congress and the states today to smash by legislation M. L. Annenberg's international turf news network on the ground that it nurtures illegal gambling.

Although the jury held that Annenberg's interests have enjoyed a monopoly on racing news since January 2, 1935, it did not indict him on anti-trust charges, holding the laws were not intended "to apply to activities which by their very nature are illegal."

Instead it reported a presentment recommending dissolution of the alleged monopoly and indicted the wealthy Philadelphia publisher and three others on charges of conspiracy to bribe a witness who appeared before the jury. They were accused of conspiring to pay $100 to a Philadelphia detective to influence his testimony.

Annenberg, indicted for the third time by federal grand juries in 12 days, issued a statement terming the presentment "simply one more step in the plan to besmirch me."

Termining the issue a "fundamental" one, President Baker said, effort would be made to limit debate.

The minority report, pointing out the ITU is only threatened with suspension from the AFL, stated the printers do not recognize the legality of the AFL assessment. It instructed its delegates to present themselves at the next convention of the federation, and in the event they are not seated, to serve notice the ITU no longer is interested in AFL affiliation.

BIRMINGHAM NEEDY GET FOOD STAMPS

54,170 Helped by First Such Experiment in a Southern City.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Claude B. Hodges, of the Surplus Commodities Corporation, said today $72,862 in federal food stamps had been distributed to 10,834 heads of needy families in this area.

The Birmingham stamp plan experiment, first to be instituted in a southern city, is giving assistance to 54,170 persons, Hodges said. Only persons certified for relief or public assistance are eligible for food stamps.

The stamp plan provides for purchase through regular channels of foodstuffs designated by the commodities corporation as surplus.

Dr. J. L. Hopping, Atlanta veterinarian, will speak twice in the program of the seventy-sixth annual convention of the American Veterinary Medical Association at Memphis, August 28 through September 1. Dr. J. W. Thome, of 488 Edgewood avenue, also will attend.

101 COTTON NATIONS WILL SEEK ACCORD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(AP) Nine countries that have been competing with the United States in the international trade war to supply the world with cotton accepted invitations today to discuss a possible agreement on sharing markets.

The Agriculture Department announced that these nations—India, Egypt, Brazil, Russia, the Sudan, Peru, Mexico, the United Kingdom and France—confer here on September 5. England and France will be represented on behalf of cotton exporting colonies.

Secretary Wallace has more than $50,000,000 from congress to use in his announced attempt to regain world markets for American cotton through government subsidies.

'SOCIAL' MEDICINE COMING, DRUGGIST CONVENTION TOLD

Educator Advises Pharmacists To Co-operate in Working Out Plan That Will Prove Fair.

Physicians and pharmacists must co-operate in forming "a definite, comprehensive plan, equitable to all of the professions" for a socialized medical program, Professor John N. McDonnell declared here yesterday.

Some form of socialized medicine "will come in the future, regardless of whether we like it or not," the educator said. Dr. McDonnell is a faculty member of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science and was addressing delegates of the American Pharmaceutical Association in convention here yesterday.

Dr. Charles H. Rogers, chairman of the house of delegates, declared all phases of the drug industry should be represented in discussions of socialized medicine plans, even though they had to send "uninvited guests."

In a report prepared for the association's convention, Dr. Rogers, dean of the University of Minnesota's school of pharmacy, asserted pharmacy, so far as he knew, had not been represented at conferences on socialized or state medicine.

Urges Revisions.
Dr. Rogers urged state associations to support revisions of state laws to aid enforcement of the federal food, drug and cosmetic act.

John F. McCloskey, dean of pharmacy at Loyola University, New Orleans, declared pharmacy had been hindered by the "almost complete failure of the builders" of medical college curriculums to recognize properly the foundations of medicine and certain pharmaceutical prerequisites.

Warns of Substitute.
Dr. Heber W. Youngken, of Boston, reported discovery of an unsatisfactory substitute for the drug jalap on the American market recently. He identified it as the roots of the common "four o'clock" plant, marketed from Mexico where this country gets its major supply of jalap, and warned the substitute not only did not have a physiological action like jalap but was also irritating to the skin and to mucous membranes.

Last night the president's reception and the general convention banquet were held at the Piedmont Driving Club.
At tonight's session of the house of delegates an honorary president, secretary and treasurer of the association will be elected and the report on the committee for nomination of president will be heard. The time and place of the 1940 convention will also be selected.

On the program this morning is an address by Herbert M. Skinner, of the Royal Northern Hospital, London, England, whose subject is "The Place of Pharmacy in Health Insurance in England."

AUXILIARY RE-ELECTS MRS. FISCHER

Women's Auxiliary of the American Pharmaceutical Association re-elected Mrs. R. P. Fischer, of Trenton, N. J., national president at its one-day meeting yesterday at the Baltimore hotel.

Mrs. Robert C. Wilson, wife of the dean of the University of Georgia's School of Pharmacy, was appointed district vice president for the south.

Other national officers elected were Mrs. H. M. Whelpley, of St. Louis, vice president, and Mrs. Hugo H. Schaefer, of Yorkers, N. Y., secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Walter Adams, of Forney, Texas, was named district vice president for the southwest.

Plans were announced for the inauguration in September, 1940, of a student loan fund to assist women pharmacy students through their third and fourth years of college. Women attending any accredited pharmacy school in the United States are eligible as beneficiaries.

BOLIVIAN DICTATOR COMMITTS SUICIDE

35-Year-Old 'Condor of the Andes' Succumbs to Bullet Wound.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 23.—(AP) Propaganda Minister Mario Flores announced today that President German Busch, 35-year-old dictator who died of a pistol shot, had committed suicide.

Flores said that Busch—"The Condor of the Andes"—had been "suffering intense mental depression as a result of the intense work of the past few days."

The president died at 2:45 p. m. of the wound, which was inflicted at 5:30 a. m. and at first was officially described as "accidental."

The cabinet, under General Carlos Quintanilla, issued a decree confirming provisional powers which it had assumed earlier in the day when physicians agreed that the chief magistrate's wound was fatal.

Censorship Ordered.
Quintanilla assumed the provisional presidency, a communique said, "to maintain unalterable public order and the normal development of all public and private activities."

Quintanilla clapped down a censorship on all telephone and cable services.

An outstanding hero in the Chaco war with Paraguay, the tall, dark-haired Colonel Busch became president of Bolivia at the age of 33 in July, 1937, when he led the army in a bloodless coup.

He was Bolivia's first ruler to gain power without previous political experience.

The idol of his nation's youth, he was the son of a German father and a Bolivian mother.

As a new type of dictator, he announced a "planned economy" to knit the country's war-torn, primitive fibers, but he strongly denied his regime had any similarity or contact with foreign ideologies.

His government, he said, was neither "left" nor "right," and he prohibited the use of foreign banners, insignias or uniforms.

Colonel Busch's program included "cultural conscription" to provide elementary education to the illiterate masses; a development of the country's latent riches, and a thorough overhauling of the old Spanish code, "Place them on a level with modern progress in science and law."

CITES NEED OF ABLE SCHOOL BUS PILOTS

National Safety Education Director Says High School Boys Best.

Competent drivers of school buses are necessary for the protection of Georgia school children, Miss Marion Telford, safety education director for the National Safety Council, of Chicago, declared yesterday at a training conference sponsored by the Department of Public Safety at the Georgia Evening College.

Miss Telford explained that a 10-year survey conducted in North Carolina showed high school students made better school bus drivers than adults. The survey, she added, revealed they were more dependable and economical.

The safety director pointed out that a competent bus driver is one who is dependable in character as well as in driving ability. She said he must be able to control children and get along with them.

She also stressed the need of a student patrol for every bus to aid the children in getting on and off the bus. She will speak again today, and Captain W. J. Redfern, of the state patrol, director of the conference, urged that bus drivers and teachers attend.

Belton Jennings, of the Atlanta Motor Club, spoke on the dangers of bicycle riding. He warned riders against holding on to moving vehicles.

Meanwhile, the safety department's fingerprint campaign sponsored in co-operation with the Junior Chamber of Commerce, went forward. Joseph Bray, supervisor of the identification unit, said the Georgia bureau has 36,000 prints. He said 28,000 of the records belong to criminals but the remaining 8,000 have been taken from citizens who volunteered to be printed.

FORRESTER HUNTED ON NEW BUG CHARGE

95-Mile-an-Hour Flight Is Linked With Lottery Books Found Later.

Ralph Forrester, suspected lottery operator, was being sought yesterday by Fulton county police who held a warrant for his arrest on a lottery charge after a quantity of "bug" books, alleged to have been thrown from his automobile during a chase Tuesday afternoon, were turned over to county authorities.

Forrester was arrested Tuesday afternoon at Bowen street, Fulton county, by Officers Jesse Anderson and P. E. Dowis after a chase through northside Atlanta and Fulton county. He was charged with speeding 95 miles an hour and taken to Fulton tower where he posted bond of $200.

Police reported that during the chase Forrester began throwing small packages out of his car on Howell Mill road. Later, a man whose name was withheld, brought 26 lottery books to county headquarters.

Forrester is awaiting trial in another lottery case made recently by city police. He is under three prison sentences of six months each, imposed in 1936, 1937 and 1938, but records at Bellwood camp show he has never served any time.
